The Army Airborne Center
BY MAJ. GEN. W. M. MILEY, USA
Director

The post war Army Airborne Center was established on 24 April, 1950. In most respects it is a new organization, although it does have a name, reputation, and even an insignia—carried over from its wartime predecessor.

During the early stages of World War II the need for an agency to control our rapidly expanding airborne program was recognized. So it was that on March 21, 1942, the Airborne Command was organized at Fort Benning, Georgia, under the command of the late Major General William C. Lee. The mission of the Airborne Command was to coordinate training of existing and subsequently organized airborne units. It functioned during the war not as a command, as the name implied, but as a headquarters to coordinate training. The Airborne Command was moved to Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and on March 1, 1944 was reorganized and redesignated the Airborne Center. With the cessation of hostilities our airborne strength dwindled from five divisions plus separate regiments and battalions with a large number of Troop Carrier aircraft to support them, to two divisions—the 11th Airborne in Japan and the 82d Airborne in the ZI—with only enough Troop Carrier aircraft available to lift approximately one regimental combat team. Such conditions obliterated the need for a specific agency to control such reduced airborne activity. Therefore, in 1945, the Airborne Center was deactivated.

When General J. Lawton Collins became Chief of Staff, Department of the Army, he expressed sharp interest in the tremendous power and advantages which would result if development of airborne were not allowed to lie dormant. He saw the need for some agency to coordinate airborne activities to meet requirements which any future war would demand. As airborne operations must necessarily be a joint affair involving at least two, and sometimes three, of the services, the ideal set-up was seen to be a joint airborne center to develop joint doctrines, tactics and techniques for airborne operations. Pending the activation of a joint organization, an Army agency working in close cooperation with the Air Force, could do much to develop joint doctrines and, upon activation of such a joint agency, would

Discuss $60.6 Billion Budget At Capitol

Representatives of the Armed Forces, headed by Under Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, went to the Capitol this week to testify before the Senate Committee on Appropriations regarding the $60.6 billion military budget for fiscal year 1952, which begins on 1 July.

Mr. Lovett, who stressed that the budget was formulated on military requirements and not on an allocation of dollars as was the case in recent years, emphasized that even greater funds will be required if fighting continues in Korea. Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., said a Fifth Supplemental Appropriation for 1951 would be necessary to offset costs of the war in Korea.

Under Secretary Lovett noted that with certain exceptions estimates for 1952 have been based on standard consumption rates, instead of combat consumption rates, and declared that "it does not appear feasible even now to attempt to forecast the extent to which additional funds may be required to support our efforts in Korea."

Basically, the 1952 budget will provide an Army of 18 divisions plus a number of regimental combat teams and supporting units.

The Navy will have funds for operation of 1,161 ships with the necessary aircraft and supporting units. The Fleet Marine Force will have 2 1/3 divisions, together with essential aircraft and support organizations.

For the Air Force, funds are sought for a program involving the buildup to a 95-Wing structure and certain separate squadrons and supporting units.

The major portion of the budget—almost $44 billion—is for procurement and construction, Under Secretary Lovett related. Of this amount, nearly $34.7 billion is for aircraft, ships, tanks, artillery ammunition and similar items of hard goods, while $5 billion will be expended for soft goods and $4.5 billion for Public Works construction.

Under Secretary Lovett said that instead of temporary structures, "a wasting asset and much more expensive in the end," the Armed Forces will build permanent and semi-permanent facilities "that will be useful for a number of years."

The 1952 budget, as described by Mr. Lovett, provides funds for four major objectives, as follows:

- (1) For the full support of the active forces;
- (2) For the procurement of aircraft, ships, tanks, guns, ammunitions, and similar critical items in quantities sufficient to equip the active forces with modern equipment at an early date;
- (3) For production facilities including machine tools, and tooling beyond those needed for current use but which would be required for full mobilization; and
- (4) For a Military Public Works Program to meet the essential operational require-

Slate Army Promotions

Army officials indicated this week that the initial group of officer temporary promotions—probably the first increment of advancements from major to lieutenant colonel—may be released by the end of the month.

Following announcement of the first list, it is expected that the first groups of temporary promotions to major, captain and colonel will be made available.

Although the Army has never reported any approximate number of advancements to be made, speculation is that there will be hundreds of promotions in the next months to fill currently available vacancies.

It is planned that as each increment of promotions is announced, data will be released as to the zone of consideration covered by the respective lists, so that eligible officers will know immediately whether or not their names were considered for inclusion in that particular increment.

Navy Selections Are Pigeon-Holed

The reports of two Navy selection boards, recommending officers for temporary promotion to lieutenant and lieutenant commander, were held up this week pending action by Congress on legislation which would permit the Navy to dispense with certain statutory boards during the present emergency.

Although the boards completed their work last week and the lists have gone to the White House, the promotions cannot be approved by the President until the new legislation becomes effective.

When the two boards were convened last April, the Navy, in anticipation of the new promotion provisions, did not make them statutory boards as required by the Officer Personnel Act. It was thought, a Navy spokesman said, that the new legislation would go into effect before the boards completed their work and that statutory boards would, therefore, be unnecessary.

However, the boards ended their deliberations before the new legislation—which has passed the Senate and was approved this week by the House Armed Services Committee—was completed, and the selections are being withheld until the new law takes effect.

The Navy spokesman said that if the new law becomes effective before 30 June—which it is expected to do—the President can take immediate action on the selection lists and the Navy will go ahead with its planned promotions. If the law should fail of passage, an unlikely possibility, it would then be necessary to convene a statutory board to go over the lists and decide which officers should be recommended for promotion under the statutory provisions.

The Navy also indicated this week that it may retain officers in all ranks who have been twice passed over by selection

Congress Asks Dept. Pay Raise Report

The House Armed Services Committee has called upon the Department of Defense to submit its views regarding legislation which would tie military pay to the Cost of Living Index.

Such action, which initially would result in a minimum pay raise of nine per cent, was proposed last month by Representative James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa.).

In the Senate this week, legislation was introduced to raise the allotments for dependents of enlisted members of the Armed Forces.

The bill, S. 1587, sponsored by Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), was referred to the Armed Services Committee. Senator Humphrey contended that its passage is necessary "in the interest of preserving and extending the morale of our soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines and for the sake of common sense and human dignity."

The Minnesota legislator said he has received numerous letters from constituents in the Armed Forces who are in financial difficulties. "They, like other citizens," said Senator Humphrey, "are perfectly willing to be of service to their country, but they are chagrined, disappointed and hurt in the fact that our country does not make adequate provision for the support of their families while they are away from home."

These letters, Senator Humphrey told his colleagues "tell the same story. It is the story of inadequate dependency allotments. With rising costs for food, clothing and other essentials of life, the wives, mothers and children of the members of the Armed Forces are facing growing hardship."

There is published on Page 1131 charts which compare World War II allotments, those now in effect, and the raised allotments proposed by Senator Humphrey.

Meantime, Congressional activity on the long-pending bill to authorize combat pay for military personnel in Korea—primarily ground force troops—continues to be delayed because of the current hearings on the removal of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

The House Armed Services Committee has taken the position that it will not hold hearings on the hazardous duty pay bill, sponsored by the Department of Defense, until after the Senate Armed Services Committee and then the Senate have disposed of the legislation.

The Senate committee has held brief hearings on the combat pay legislation, but interrupted its work with the initiation of the hearings involving General MacArthur, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Secretary of State.

When this top-level investigation will be completed and the Senate group will be free to resume hearings on Service legislation, including the combat pay bill, was uncertain late this week.

It is known, however, that despite the Memphis, Tenn., Commercial Appeal—"The Senate-House committee . . . reached agreement on a universal military training measure which, although far from being genuinely realistic, is better than nothing at all for it is an historic start. . . . The sensible thing, of course, would have been to write a simple law requiring that every able-bodied male, upon reaching a specified age, would have to serve so many months in actual armed services training and so many years in the active reserve. That's real universal military training."

Florence, Ala., Times—"America has a right to be deeply proud of the character and caliber of its top military men. Not only are they of high soldierly attainment, but are firmly devoted to the belief that great military power is best used to prevent war—not to wage it. . . . In the light of their record, their abilities, and their aims, we can and must trust these men to steer a wise course for us in this all-out struggle against communism. They have earned our confidence by performance."

New York Times—"All in all, the (Universal Military Training) Measure constitutes one more step toward proving that the people of the United States are determined to build up their military strength in the interests of preserving world peace and that they are will to make the sacrifices necessary to do it."

New York Herald Tribune—"The Chinese Communist attitude is still an enigma. Mao's troops have been badly and repeatedly defeated. Their losses are very high; their weapons and supply system have shown no improvement; their morale, if not yet seriously affected, has been impaired. The military conditions for a cease-fire would seem to be present."

The Baltimore Sun—"One of the most frequent voiced complaints about courts-martial in World War II was their failure to be a jury of an enlisted man's peers because only officers served as judges. Congress in 1948 gave Army and Air Force enlisted men the right to have one third of the members of their trial courts composed of enlisted personnel, and that right, under the uniform code, is now extended to enlisted men in all services. But the right may not be exercised extensively. The experience among enlisted men in the Army and Air Force has been that their peers are apt to be harder on them than their officers. As a result, only six per cent of Army men and fewer Air Force men have requested enlisted men on juries."

THE WAR IN KOREA

ADVANCING Eighth Army troops this week made substantial gains on all sectors of the front in Korea against stubborn enemy resistance. The positions of the opposing troops toward the end of this week were substantially the same as those occupied six weeks ago, just prior to the beginning of the futile Communist spring offensive, with the Allies hammering at the approaches to the important enemy center of Chorwon and Kumwha.

(Secretary of Defense, General Marshall, landed in Tokyo yesterday. His departure from Washington had not been announced.)

The Allied forces in the past six weeks not only stopped the two strong Communist drives, but in strong counter-attacks soon regained all territory previously lost to the enemy. More important, the United Nations forces inflicted tremendous casualties on the Communist forces. Estimates of enemy losses in the past six weeks run as high as a quarter of a million, while Allied casualties were comparatively light.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commanding the Eighth Army, has announced that the pursuit phase of the Allied counter-offensive has ended. However, the initiative remains with the Eighth Army, and its front-line divisions are continuing to assail enemy defenses, and to make limited gains against strong resistance.

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., has sent a warm message to General Van Fleet, praising the achievements of the Eighth Army. Mr. Pace said:

"Recent accomplishments of the Eighth Army reflect the highest combat performance of all ranks. Your masterful stand against the enemy onslaught, followed by the prompt resumption of the offensive, merits the praise and gratitude of the Army, the nation and the free world."

"Iron Triangle" Action

In the current fighting the principal enemy opposition is in the so-called Iron Triangle area on the central front. This is the main build-up region of the Communist forces, the assembly point for personnel replacements and reinforcements, and the storage area for supplies and equipment of all types.

Despite its designation the area is not triangular in form, though it extends from Chorwon on the west to Kumwha on the east and north to Pyonggang. It is well organized and possesses many natural defensive features, along ridge lines and mountain slopes. In this area the Reds have shown themselves to be extremely sensitive to Allied attacks.

Operations in all sections, particularly on the central front, were greatly hampered this week by heavy rains and deep mud. These conditions are particularly unfavorable to the use of tanks and mechanical transport, and handicap the Allies more than the enemy. This is the rainy season in Korea, and the rainfall thus far this year has been much heavier than usual. Adverse weather has made air operations extremely difficult and has largely deprived the Allies of essential air observation.

Numerous determined counter-attacks by the enemy on the central front were repulsed with heavy Red losses, after which Allied forces advanced to dig the Communists out of hill positions, which had been strongly constructed and well organized. Steady progress brought the Allies within artillery range of the key town of Chorwon.

Line of Resistance

The enemy main line of resistance in the central sector appears to be not far north of the scene of the present fighting. Strong screening forces, well dug in along ridge lines and slopes, apparently have the mission of blocking the Allied advance to the main defensive positions as long as possible.

North of the Chorwon-Kumwha complex of field entrenchments in the central mountains there is considerable open country, much better suited to tank operations and rapid maneuver. This terrain would be favorable to the Allied exploitation of any major penetration of the enemy main line.

On the extreme western front this week, United Nations patrols operated north and west of the Imjin River, with practically no enemy contact. However, they observed an enemy battalion north of Munsan. Allied forces east of Korangpo-ri crossed the Imjin River and were engaged by a heavy volume of fire, forcing a withdrawal.

In the Yonchon area, United Nations troops made gains against light to moderate resistance. A small enemy counter-attack was repulsed. A tank patrol probing forward encountered small arms and automatic weapons fire north of Yonchon.

Rear Guard Opposition

Allied elements in the Yongpyong area made some gains against moderate resistance, which included artillery fire. Most of the opposition encountered was of a rear guard nature, designed to cover an enemy withdrawal to the north.

Light enemy contact was reported in the Yonggong-ni area as friendly forces continued their successful attack. Eighth Army forces in the area west and north-west of Hwachon met resistance from two Red regiments in entrenched positions.

In the Hwachon area two other Red regiments were encountered as they fought a delaying action, while friendly forces pressed forward north of the big Hwachon reservoir. Red troops astride the Hwachon-Kumwha road continued to offer heavy and stubborn resistance, as they covered a withdrawal to more favorable defensive positions farther north.

Heavy opposition to the Allied advance was encountered north and northeast of Yanggu, where limited gains were made by friendly troops. Heavy enemy resistance was also reported in the area north-west of Inje, where an enemy regiment was engaged.

Several relatively small Red counter-attacks were made near the east coast, west and southwest of the port of Kongsong, which was captured by the Allies last week. All Red attacks were repulsed by South Korean troops, with the aid of naval gunfire from Allied warships, steaming close to the coast.

Enemy Casualties Estimated

The complete effect of the recent disastrous second phase of the Communist spring offensive in Korea has not yet received complete official appraisal. However, a compilation of the Department of Defense places enemy casualties since the start of the Korean War on 25 June 1950 through 30 May 1951 at the astounding figure of 1,133,410. This estimate represents an increase of 108,006 over that of 23 May, and reflects the heavy losses suffered by the Communists in the last week of May, during the fierce counter-attack of the Allies. Since that time there have been substantial, but as yet unestimated Red losses.

Of the total losses inflicted on the enemy since the beginning of the conflict it is estimated that 682,238 were battle casualties, 138,880 were due to illness and injuries, and 149,417 are known to be prisoners of war. By far the greater number of the captured Reds are North Koreans, but during the last two weeks several thousand Communist soldiers were taken.

Psychological warfare is credited with inducing the surrender of 30 per cent of the prisoners taken by the Allies during the Korean conflict. Many of these captured said that they became convinced by reading Allied pamphlets or hearing radio and loudspeaker broadcasts that their cause was lost, or that they were fighting on the wrong side.

Thousands of Communist soldiers secreted so-called surrender passes dropped by Allied planes, which they planned to use when an opportunity was presented to desert to United Nations lines. Close vigilance is being exercised by Red officers to prevent desertions.

Air Warfare

In the air warfare in Korea this week B-29 medium bombers were used effectively in the unusual role of providing close tactical support for Allied ground troops. Heavy rains and fog greatly hampered close support by fighters and fighter-bombers, but the B-29 Superforts, using radar aiming technique, dropped 500-lb. anti-personnel fragmentation bombs on troop concentrations along the front, causing enemy losses.

Other Superforts, flying from Okinawa bases, struck targets at Chinnampo and Hamhung. Two flights dropped radar-directed bombs on the dock area and marshalling yards at Chinnampo. Another flight was able to drop heavy high-explosive bombs visually on the same targets through a break in the cloud layers. Crew members reported excellent results.

One B-29 gunner reported sighting enemy MIG-15 planes near Chinnampo. This is an unusual distance south of Manchuria for enemy aircraft to venture, and it indicates the increased aggressiveness of the enemy in the air. The American B-29s were escorted by flights of F-84 Thunderjets and F-86 Sabrejets.

American F-80 Shooting Stars and Marine Corsairs attacked Red buildup areas directly behind enemy front-line positions. Strikes were made on gun emplacements, troop concentrations, vehicular traffic, bridges and supply points.

B-26 light bombers attacked railroad bridges in the Haeju-Ongjin sector with good results. Other B-26s seeded rear area activities with anti-personnel bombs, inflicting hundreds of casualties. Buildings, vehicles, locomotives, railroad cars, fuel storage dumps, and marshalling yards were destroyed or heavily damaged. Railroad main lines were cut in several places. In other operations light bombers damaged enemy air fields at Sinanju and Pyonggang. Two friendly aircraft were lost to enemy ground fire.

EUROPEAN THEATER

IT should be pointed out that, desirable as would be a firm decision by North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations on the politically delicate matter of the Mediterranean area set-up—this having been in debate for months—President Truman long ago disposed of the primary Mediterranean problem as it affects General Eisenhower's European Command at SHAPE. Back in December he directed the U. S. Sixth Task Fleet (now in the Mediterranean) to support General Eisenhower.

This was the situation's fundamental and urgent need, which has been repeatedly emphasized. On taking over the Paris command and implementing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's plans for Western Europe some weeks ago, General Eisenhower was able immediately to name his deputies and his regional commanders in the Northern and Central Sectors, but to do very little about organizing his Southern Sector until the Mediterranean Command was set up. This meant that he could not organize the defense of his vulnerable right flank, or indeed start organization of any sort in an area which might well see some of SHAPE's most important labors.

NATO's political disposition had been to create, instead, a solid Mediterranean area command, coordinate with SHAPE and also with the projected Atlantic Area command. But such an establishment has been dependent upon agreement on a great many tender subjects—France's north-south control requirements, Britain's Gibraltar-Malta-Cyprus requirements, the possible admission of Spain to NATO membership, and that of Greece and Turkey. Today, after weeks of discussion, no such agreement is remotely in sight. Meantime, General Eisenhower's need of a firm flank organization has grown no less; rather it has increased. It is to meet his need, without attempting a unilateral decision on the other 12-nation problems, that attention this week was called to the standing assignment of the U. S. Sixth Task Fleet. Possibly this stems from the recent Washington visit of Admiral Robert B. Carney, Commander-in-Chief of U. S. Naval Forces in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean. Admiral Carney has over-all command of the Sixth, which is under operating command of Vice Adm. Matthias B. Gardner.

Sixth Fleet Strengthened

The recent growth of Sixth Task Fleet has passed without wide notice, but it has been very rapid both in numbers of vessels and in tonnage. It now includes the 45,000-ton carriers Coral Sea and Roosevelt, the smaller carrier Saipan, the cruisers Salem and Newport News, 13 destroyers, and some 50 other ships of various categories. This is manifestly the largest single floating force in the Mediterranean, and an impressive establishment for General Eisenhower's support; also it is at hand, rather than in prospect, and capable of immediate use, regardless of the debate within NATO's council of deputies.

SHAPE's air resources, as well as our own in Europe, have also been under examination this week, with General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Air Staff, there for conference with Lt. Gen. Lauris

Norstad and with the British, French, and Canadian air chiefs. There is a great deal of orientation necessary at all times; the experiences at the recent Low Country air exercise and the planning for the larger September maneuvers are two specific areas for top-level discussion.

General Collins Returns

General J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, returned to Washington on Tuesday after a rapid European trip, long enough to permit some extended talks at SHAPE and the inspection of numerous U. S. field elements in Germany, Austria, and Trieste. General Collins reported the troops "in excellent shape" and—with particular reference to the command in Germany—getting some first class training in night infiltration and flanking attacks.

Comment by Lt. Gen. Manton G. Eddy on the eve of the new ground maneuvers, is that the American forces near Grafenwoehr are due for even less formal training in barracks and for more field operations designed to develop junior officers' leadership. It is mildly interesting to note, among the criticisms, that there is need for better road control and better routine consciousness of enemy air possibilities; these have been standard criticisms of peacetime maneuvers in our Army for a great many years, and (in the opinion of our gloomier critics) will be for a great many years to come.

Must Speed Production

The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, whose current European trip is bringing him into a good many overseas conferences, summarized his views to date in a few words—he is most favorably impressed by the organization and planning work of the SHAPE staff, and he is chiefly interested at the moment in seeing the forces which the planning calls for. Beyond that, he thinks that a great deal still needs to be done to improve the pace of arms production, in Europe and in America as well. General Bradley gave the impression that the arrival in Europe of three Joint Chiefs in the same week was not of great significance—other than that they all had completed their testimony before the Senate Committees only a few days earlier—but it is clear that several representatives of the NATO nations were pleased by this evidence of a lively American interest in what is going on in Europe, as well as in Korea and at the Capitol.

The second phase of the Italian elections passed last Sunday with Sicily recording an extremely slender victory for Premier de Gasperi's party (Christian Democrats) over the Communist-led People's bloc. The margin was 21,000 votes in the 2,133,000 total, partly occasioned by the surprising vote of the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI)—initials which Italian jesters say, significantly, must stand for "Mussini." That the Communist bloc's total is large in Sicily, as it was in Northern Italy (even though anti-Communism captured most of the offices and political machinery), is something to think about. This weekend elections will be held in the remaining municipalities of Italy.

long delay in gaining Congressional action on the bill, which would provide $100 monthly hazardous duty pay for officers and $50 monthly for enlisted men, the Department of Defense proposes to make an energetic case for its passage when hearings are resumed.

Meantime, as Congressional hearings continued on legislation which would raise the pay of the Government's classified civilian employees and employees of the Post Office, and in the midst of reports that the Economic Stabilization Agency might endorse even higher pay raises for industrial workers than the 10 per cent maximum now in force, the Department of Defense has been asked to comment on Mr. Van Zandt's military across-the-board pay raise proposal.

Congressman Van Zandt, who is a member of the House Armed Services Committee, and who also is a captain in the Naval Reserve, contends that military personnel, probably even more than civilian employees have suffered serious financial hardships as a result of the increase in the Cost of Living.

He wants military pay tied to the Cost of Living Index, and says that this would mean a minimum nine per cent pay increase.

The Department of Defense, it is believed certain, will tell Congress that, pay-wise, there should be no discrimination against members of the Armed Forces, and that compensation for men and women in uniform should receive the same consideration as given to pay increases for the Government's civilian employees.

Whether the Department will come out in explicit support of a stringent tie in of military pay and the Cost of Living Index is still doubtful.

It is to be noted that the Cost of Living Index is formulated on a civilian basis exclusively and does not take into consideration such peculiar Service phenomena as frequent transfers and separation of families, involving high financial outlays.

The subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee, headed by Representative Paul Kilday (D-Tex.), meantime has not indicated when hearings will begin on a proposed omnibus bill of amendments to the Career Compensation Act, necessary to remove serious inequities in the present military pay law.

The likelihood seems that action will be blended on an omnibus bill of amendments, and the proposals to provide an across-the-board pay raise for all military personnel.

However, there already is developing on Capitol Hill talk of a possible recess during the summer, which could interfere seriously with both the pay raise legislation and the measure to authorize combat pay in Korea.

The situation will become clearer when the current Senate investigation of General MacArthur's removal and our Far East policy is concluded.

In the interim, however, considerable pressure is being built up on Capitol Hill for passage of remedial military pay legislation.

Marine NCO's Selected

More than 3,800 Marine staff non-commissioned officers, both regular and Reserve, have been selected for promotion, Marine Corps Headquarters announced on 7 June.

"This is a new record in the number of such promotions authorized at one time by a selection board," the Corps said.

Representing all occupational fields, 2,216 staff sergeants and 1,633 technical sergeants, both regular and reserve, will be advanced to the next higher rank.

Convert Two Carriers For Heavier Planes

Two of the Navy's Essex class aircraft carriers will be converted at a cost of about $120 million to enable them to handle bigger planes, the Navy said this week.

Both of the 27,000-ton vessels, the USS Randolph and the USS Hornet, are now in the Reserve Fleet.

Work, which will include thorough modernization in other aspects as well as strengthening of flight decks, will start "almost immediately," the Navy said, and will take "about 30 months to complete."

The Randolph will be converted at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Newport News, Va., and the Hornet will get its "new look" at the New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Funds for the two conversions—about $60 million each, "including everything," the Navy said—were made available in the Fourth Supplemental Appropriation Act of 1951, which recently passed the Congress.

The Act also provides funds for the conversion of ten destroyers and the construction of three 165-foot minesweepers (AM) and two 138-foot minesweepers (AMS). Work on the destroyers involves armament changes and will be accomplished at Naval shipyards during regularly scheduled overhauls. The minesweeper construction work will be awarded by negotiation to private shipyards on the basis of competitive proposals already submitted to the Navy's Bureau of Ships.

The two new carrier conversions will make a total of nine Essex-type carriers capable of handling heavier planes.

Conversion of two such ships, the Oriskany and the Essex, has been completed and work is proceeding on four others, the Kearsarge, the Lake Champlain, the Bennington and the Yorktown.

TAAF Hdqs. Near Biloxi

Headquarters for the newly activated Technical Training Air Force (TAAF) will be set up at the Gulf Coast Military Academy, near Biloxi, Miss., by mid-summer, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff, announced this week.

Maj. Gen. Charles C. Chauncey, USAF, former deputy commander, Technical Training, Air Training Command, will command the new TAAF.

Plans to activate TAAF, announced 28 April, were necessitated by the rapid expansion of the USAF's technical training program. TAAF is a component of the Air Training Command which has its headquarters at Scott AFB, Belleville, Ill.

475 Graduate USMA

The last two graduating classes of the U. S. Military Academy "have seen in Korea what a tragic thing it is to be the victim of unpreparedness," Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall told 475 West Point graduates this week.

General Marshall said that it is "vital and unquestionably necessary" to rearm the democracies, and he pointed out that despite Russian opposition, the economy of Europe has been largely rehabilitated.

Discussing Korea, he said that after eight months of stripping other commands to provide replacements for Korean forces, the manpower budget is now beginning to equalize. Trained soldiers are now available to replace losses in Korea, he said, and to maintain a rotation policy. He added that pending draft and UMT legislation would provide a continuing source of strength.

Speaking extemporaneously to the graduating cadets, General Marshall praised the "magnificent leadership, from the top down to squad leaders" of UN forces during the latest Communist offensive. He said that the battle "will be considered a classic in military history."

At the U. S. Naval Academy, where he addressed graduating Midshipmen on 2 June, Secretary Marshall said that the Korean fighting had proved the value of "cooperation and coordination" among the services.

General Marshall was critical of the "lip service" paid to the principle of UMT in the past, and said that a "respectable military posture" depended on a workable universal military training program.

At West Point on 5 June, 475 Cadets were graduated. Top man in the class was Cadet Gordon Danforth, who received 3,298.61 points of a maximum total of 3,525.00. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force.

At the awards ceremony on 4 June, Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, USMA Commandant, presented the top military award to William J. Ryan, Cadet First Captain, who had the highest record in military efficiency.

In addition to Cadet Danforth, eight other cadets were graduated with the designation "Distinguished Cadet": A. C. Remson, Jr., E. E. Aldrin, Jr., R. L. Harris, W. L. Lemnitzer, W. E. Vandenberg, V. L. Johnston, J. G. Clemons, Jr., and T. B. Horgan.

Swear in New S. G.

Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong was sworn in on 6 June as Surgeon General of the Army, at a ceremony in the office of General J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff of the Army. Maj. Gen. William E. Bergin, Acting the Adjutant General, administered the oath.

General Armstrong succeeds Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, whose retirement from the Army after 40 years' service became effective 31 May.

General Armstrong had been Deputy Surgeon General of the Army since 1 June 1947.

Present at the ceremony in addition to General Collins were: Mrs. Armstrong, the General's wife; U. S. Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana; Representative Charles A. Halleck of Indiana; Assistant Secretary of the Army Earl D. Johnson; Vice Adm. Joel T. Boone of the Veterans Administration; Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, physician to the President; Rear Adm. Lamont Pugh, Surgeon General of the Navy; Maj. Gen. Harvey G. Armstrong, Surgeon General of the Air Force; Dr. Joseph A. Sheele, Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service; and Dr. Joseph Lawrence, Chairman, Washington Office, American Medical Association.

Alaska Housing Ready

The Army's large new 400-unit housing project at Fort Richardson, Alaska, is sufficiently complete so that military personnel may begin moving in with their families.

The project was started last June and continued during Alaska's short building season. It is the first of four similar projects initiated to relieve the drastic housing shortage at Alaska military installations.

Approximately 50 per cent of the family-type apartments will be allotted to non-commissioned officers, 35 per cent to company grade officers and 15 per cent to field grade officers.

Brig. Gen. G. J. Nold, USA, Assistant Chief of Engineers said that in designing the project the Corps of Engineers was faced with the dual problem of providing adequately for extreme weather conditions and the high cost of construction in Alaska.

On the first floor, each apartment has a large living room, dinette and a modern, fully-equipped kitchen. Upstairs are three bedrooms and bath. The full size basement is equipped with wash tubs and other facilities. Heating is furnished by a central plant which supplies the entire project.

The entire project is expected to be completed next month. The civilian contractors were Patti & Son of St. Louis, Missouri, and the MacDonald Construction Company of Kansas City, Missouri, working jointly.

New Pay Cards Ready

The Army's new Pay Data Cards—with which every service member can tell at a glance what he is earning and what deductions are being made—now are being distributed through channels to all Army personnel.

The cards, which are wallet size, are to be carried by each soldier for his own information. He is expected to make his own entries on the card, too.

There are two forms of the card: DA AGO 668 for enlisted members and DA AGO 77 for officers.

On one side of the card are spaces for its owner to write his name, grade and service number, his monthly record of payments received, and his monthly debits, such as withholding tax, allotments, etc.

On the other side is a complete pay table.

The enlisted men's table shows basic pay for all enlisted grades in all pay periods. It also lists pay rates for sea and foreign duty, flying, and hazardous duty and has a complete rundown on Class "Q" Allotment facts and figures.

The officers' table includes all basic pay figures, extra pay facts, quarters and subsistence allowances and flying pay.

Issuance of the pay data cards was suggested by the Chief of Finance on recommendation of his Military Pay System Board, a permanent group whose mission is the continuing study of the Army's pay system.

USMA Grads Casualties

Army officials disclosed this week statistics which emphasize the large number of casualties suffered by junior officers in the rugged Korean fighting.

More than one-fourth of the graduates of the 1950 Class at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., are listed as battle casualties. The 55 casualties among these 202 second lieutenants include 13 dead, 30 wounded, 8 missing and 4 injured.

Among those killed in action was 2d Lt. John C. Trent, captain of the 1949 Cadet football team.

The Army stated that battle casualties in Korea among all company grade officers represent nearly five per cent of the total.

By classes, recent West Point graduate casualties in the Army alone—a number of USMA graduates are serving with the Air Force—have been 55 for 1950, 63 for 1949, 31 for 1948, 38 for 1947, and 30 for 1946.

An Army spokesman reported that the rate of casualties among Army junior officers has not resulted in any particular replacement problem. Needs of the Far East Command for lieutenants and captains have been met by West Point graduates, Reserve Officer Training Corps graduates, Officer Candidate School graduates and Reserves.

Gen. Bragdon To Retire

Maj. Gen. John S. Bragdon, USA, Deputy Chief of Engineers, Department of the Army, has requested retirement from active duty after 36 years of service in the Corps of Engineers. Effective date of requested retirement is 30 June.

General Bragdon was commissioned in the Corps of Engineers upon his graduation from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point in 1915.

General Bragdon was appointed South Atlantic Division Engineer in Atlanta, Ga., in May 1941 and was later assigned additional duties as Engineer, Headquarters, 4th Service Command. In the early stages of World War II he directed a $2 billion construction program of camps, ordnance plants, depots, ports of embarkation, air bases and airfields in the Southeast. For his performance of these duties he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in September 1942. During this period he also supervised the construction of some 45 airfields in South and Central America, Mexico, and the West Indies.

Ordered to Washington in June 1944 as Chief of the Military Construction Division, Office of the Chief of Engineers, General Bragdon supervised the engineering, construction and maintenance program of the Army and Air Force in the United States. In addition he organized and supervised construction of the air base in the Azores during the war and post war overseas construction in the Philippines, Alaska, Okinawa, Guam, Iceland, Newfoundland, and Greece. For his service during this period, he was awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal.

General and Mrs. Bragdon reside at The Westchester Apartments, 4000 Cathedral Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Army Airborne Center

provide the Army's component for the joint agency.

Whereas the Airborne Command was established to cope with conditions and requirements recognized after the outbreak of hostilities, today's Army Airborne Center was formed as the result of positive action by the Department of the Army to develop the airborne potential to the utmost as a preparedness measure for any future eventuality.

Activated as an agency of the Chief of Army Field Forces, the Army Airborne Center's mission, stated briefly, is to develop the joint aspects of doctrines, procedures, tactics, techniques, training and tactical evaluation and testing of equipment for airborne operations. Further, it was directed to closely coordinate its work with a group of Air Force officers from Tactical Air Command known as the USAF Tactical Liaison Office. There has been no lack of mutual cooperation from the beginning. The Air Force and Army groups work together with offices in the same building.

One of the major problems facing the Army Airborne Center is developing and implementing a clear-cut program and resolving differences of opinion existing within the Army as to the concept for future airborne operations. The foundations of a concept and a program were laid by the Army Airborne Panel, appointed in January 1950 by the Department of the Army. Although a unilateral panel, it filled a pressing requirement in developing a concise Army position which could be presented to the Air Force for either concurrence or consideration.

Despite the excellent cooperation received from the USAF Tactical Liaison Office, much of the Center's work has necessarily been unilateral in nature since the Tactical Liaison Office can cooperate only on doctrinal matters. Studies had to be conducted on numerous matters to establish a clear Army position which, when approved by higher authority, would form the basis of requests to the other services in providing the means and methods of conducting future airborne operations. Under the Key West Agreement, the Army was charged with the predominant interest in airborne operations. This requires the Army to take the initiative in furthering the development of airborne operations and increasing the capabilities of performing those operations.

The Army Airborne Center considers itself the Army's agent of responsibility to keep the airborne potential out of the doldrums. Its mission, expressed differently, is to breathe life into the airborne program, to check airborne war plans against airborne capabilities, and to recommend means of expanding those capabilities to meet the needs of modern war plans.

As all airborne operations are entirely dependent upon availability of air transport, with Naval participation required in many types of airborne operations, a joint airborne center staffed by Army, Navy, and Air Force representatives is the most concrete means of developing the airborne potential to its ultimate worth. Meanwhile, the Army Airborne Center is proceeding on a unilateral basis, in conjunction with the Tactical Air Liaison Office, to expand airborne capabilities.

Navy Names 1800 to CPO

The Navy this week authorized the advancement to chief petty officer, acting appointment, of 1,800 first-class petty officers who competed successfully in service-wide examinations for advancement in rating last February.

The advancements will become effective during the period of 16 June to 16 Aug., this year.

In addition, the Navy said, 5,400 other candidates successfully passed the examinations but could not be advanced at the present time due to budgetary and pay grade limitations. "It is expected," the Bureau of Naval Personnel said, "that a substantial number of further advancements may be authorized from among this group when future conditions permit."

Navy Builds Guam Hospital

The Navy has announced plans to replace the temporary hospital on Guam with a permanent 350-bed unit costing $18,000,000.

Construction work is due to begin late this summer under a cost-plus, fixed fee contract between the Navy and the Brown Pacific-Mayon Construction Company, a West Coast Syndicate. The four-story earthquake-and-typhoon structure will be built on the heights overlooking Agaña Village.

The main structure will be flanked by a pair of two-story ward wings and a dependents' wing. The hospital will have its own personnel quarters, power plant, fire station, garage, and storehouse. Four family quarters units for key personnel also will be built.

The new hospital will be used by personnel of all branches of the Armed Forces and by Naval civilian employees. Military personnel are currently using the temporary facilities operated jointly by the Navy and the Guam Memorial Hospital.

Capt. William Sihler, CEC, USN, public works officer for Guam, is officer-in-charge of construction.

Marine Generals Retire

Two Marine general officers, advanced on the retired list to the rank of lieutenant general, were retired this week at their own request. They are Lieutenant Generals William E. Riley and Edward A. Craig.

General Craig, 55, commanded the first Marine units to fight in Korea. Since his return to the United States, he has served as director of Marine Corps Reserve. A native of Danbury, Conn., and a graduate of St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wisc., he was commissioned in the Marine Corps in 1917, and is a veteran of more than 33 years Marine Corps service.

General Riley, who has served as Chief of Staff of the United Nations Palestine Truce Mission since August 1949, has completed more than 34 years' service, including participation in two world wars, and service in Haiti, Puerto Rico, Santo Domingo and Cuba. He is a native of Minneapolis, Minn., and a graduate of the College of St. Thomas, at St. Paul, Minn. He was commissioned in the Marine Corps in June 1917.

Decorate 2nd Wing Colors

Organizational colors of Marine Air Groups 11 and 14, Second Air Wing, will be decorated on 13 June by Marine Commandant, General Clifton B. Cates, in a troop review at Cherry Point, N. C.

Official presentation of the streamers by General Cates will be made in recognition of the Presidential Unit Citation presented to the Wing for its participation in the American and Asiatic-Pacific Theaters during World War II.

How can you Tell till you Try It?

THE days and weeks are slipping by—and what have you done about it?

What have you done to find out how it feels to handle a high-powered and high-spirited '51 Buick?

We'll tell you this. In all the years that Buick has been building fine automobiles, there's never been the match for this one.

This is a car that likes to be compared—for power, for performance, for ease of control, for ride, and room, and comfort.

We can tell you its Fireball power sinks you back in the cushions at the touch of your toe.

We can tell you it's nimble-footed in traffic, or that it conquers hills with smooth and exultant momentum.

We can tell you it hugs the road and holds the curves as if it were drawn by an invisible magnet.

We can tell you that it has big, soft coil springs on all four wheels—or that you never feel engine-throb in the accelerator pedal.

We can tell you that Dynaflo Drive* will spoil you for any other type of power transmission.

But you'll never know till you try for yourself what all this really means.

How about seeing your Buick dealer for a sample? Once you've experienced all this for yourself, the modest price tags on Buick SPECIALS, SUPERS or ROADMASTERS will look like a double bargain.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Seek Limit Removal

The Department of Defense has requested Congress to enact legislation "To remove certain limitations on number of aircraft, units, and organizations which may be maintained and operated by the Air Force of the United States."

The proposed legislation would repeal Section 201(b) and Section 203 and amend Section 204 of the Army and Air Force Authorization Act of 1949 (Public Law 604, 81st Congress). The Department of the Air Force recently recommended immediate action be taken to remove statutory limitations on the number of groups and serviceable aircraft authorized the Air Force. Present programming for the build-up of organizational units indicates that the Air Force will exceed the limitations contained in Section 201(b) and Section 203.

Section 1 of the proposed bill would repeal Section 201(b) which authorizes an AF strength of not to exceed 70 groups and such separate squadrons, reserve groups, and supporting and auxiliary AF and reserve units as may be required. Present Air Force target is 95 groups and even more are needed according to General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff.

Section 1 also repeals section 203 which reads as follows:

"The Air Force of the United States is hereby authorized twenty-four thousand serviceable aircraft or two hundred and twenty-five thousand airframe tons aggregate of serviceable aircraft, whichever amount the Secretary of the Air Force may determine is more appropriate to fulfill the requirements of the Air Force of the United States for aircraft necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act: Provided, That guided missiles shall not be included within the number of aircraft or airframe tons herein authorized."

The submitted bill thus would remove the limit on the number of groups authorized at present, and would allow the Secretary of the Air Force to determine the number of aircraft to be in the Air Force without regard to airframe tons.

Gen. Wolfe To Retire

Lt. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, USAF, Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel, who on 15 June 1944 directed the first B-29 strike against Japan from bases in Western China, will retire on 30 June. He has been on continuous active duty with the Army or Air Force since January 1918.

The Air Force noted that according to the National Defense Act of 1916, as amended, requests for retirement from commissioned officers on the active list of the Regular Air Force who served with the military or naval forces prior to 12 Nov. 1918, must be accepted.

General Wolfe's successor has not been selected.

During World War II General Wolfe's assignments included Chief of the B-29 Special Project Staff and Chief of the Production Division of the Materiel Center at Wright Field, Ohio. He also served as Commanding General of the 58th Bombardment Wing at Salina, Kans., and of the 20th Bomber Command.

Prior to his assignment in January 1949 as Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel at Headquarters, USAF, General Wolfe served as Director of Procurement and Industrial Mobilization Planning at Air Materiel Command Headquarters, Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Honor AF JAG

The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred yesterday, 8 June, on Maj. Gen. Reginald C. Harmon, The Judge Advocate General of the Air Force, by National University School of Law, Washington, D. C., at its 82d annual convocation. General Harmon delivered the commencement address.

The University's Chancellor, Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, William O. Douglas, presided at the exercises held at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Washington, D. C. Representatives of the Bench, D. C. Bar and Judge Advocate General's Department attended. Among those present were Chief Judge of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, George F. Barse; Brig. Gen. Albert M. Kuhfeld, USAF, Assistant Judge Advocate General for Military Justice, and Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Kidner, USAF, Assistant Judge Advocate General for Appellate Services.

AF Education Program

Air Force officials reported this week that for the quarter ending 31 March, a total of 88,430 officers and airmen were participating in some phase of the off-duty education program—a 35 per cent increase over the last quarter of 1950. Of this number, 50,255 were enrolled in USAFI courses, 4,859 in Group Study Classes, and 13,618 in college and university extension classes. A total of 19,698 texts and examinations were administered.

Leaves 56th Fighter Gp.

Lt. Col. George L. Jones, Operations Officer for the 56th Fighter-Interceptor Group, who has been instrumental in numerous highly publicized tests at Selfridge AFB, Mich., including the 24-hour F-86 endurance run, has been ordered to the 4th Fighter Wing in Japan.

Colonel Jones has been Operations Officer for the 56th Fighter-Interceptor Group since his arrival at Selfridge in October, 1949.

Reserve Officers Now Eligible

Keynoting a major policy change in the program of advanced technical education for officers, the USAF Institute of Technology, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, has announced that Reserve officers on active duty are now eligible for graduate work at civilian universities in many scientific fields.

USAFIT's Civilian Institutions program had previously been open only to Regulars, with some exceptions for Reserves in meteorology and language courses.

"We will pick qualified Reserve officers for enrollment in civilian schools for graduate work beginning in September 1951," Brig. Gen. L. I. Davis, USAF, Institute Commandant, announced. "Additional Reserve, as well as Regular, enrollments will be made in Jan. of 1952."

Fields of study opened to Reserve officers under the new set-up include Nuclear Physics, Nuclear Chemistry, Bioradiology, Biochemistry, Geophysics, Electrical Engineering, Electronics, Servo Mechanisms, Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, Atmospheric Physics, Optics, Aero Engineering, Civil Engineering, Math, Metallurgy, Photogrammetry, Propulsion, Engineering, Reactor Technology, Weapons Systems Engineering and all sections of the Surgeon General Training Program for medical specialists.

Eligibility criteria for Reserve applicants will be the same as those governing Regulars. Officer applicants must be under 37 years of age and have at least one year of continuous active duty prior to submitting request for evaluation to the Commandant, USAFIT. Such requests should be prepared and forwarded as outlined in AF Regulation 50-15, and should include supporting documents as prescribed therein.

In addition, Reserve officers requesting evaluation with a view to graduate work in civilian schools, must attach the following signed statement:

"If selected I hereby agree to serve on extended duty for a minimum period of three (3) years subsequent to completion of such schooling unless sooner relieved for the convenience of the Government."

USAFIT's announcement pointed out that AF Information and Education officers are prepared to counsel applicants regarding Institute programs.

"Applicants for USAFIT graduate studies must have a baccalaureate degree and high academic qualifications in a major field appropriate to the study applied for," General Davis said. "Application is made following our evaluation of the individual officer's educational background. He makes application by indorsement on the Letter of Eligibility which we issue him after evaluation has been completed."

The Institute Commandant emphasized that those Reserve officers chosen for work in civilian institutions would be those with high service potential and the desire for an AF career.

"These educational plans are designed to fill critical Air Force requirements for officer specialists in many technical fields," he said. "We must therefore be assured that our end-product will represent a definite dividend to the Air Force on its education investment."

Reservists on EAD who have BS degrees with high academic qualifications in fields that will qualify them for graduate work in any course listed above, are urged to take advantage of this new opportunity.

Former WAVE Heads WAF

General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff, has announced the appointment of Miss Mary Jo Shelly, a former WAVE commander, to succeed Col. Geraldine P. May as Director of the Women in the Air Force.

The new director will have the rank of Colonel and will assume her post in the middle of the month. Colonel May's resignation from the Air Force becomes effective on 11 June. The third anniversary of the WAF will be celebrated on 12 June.

In making the announcement General Vandenberg said:

"Miss Shelly brings to the Air Force an unusual combination of background and experience. Her prior military service gives her an understanding of military matters while her long experience in dealing with the training of young people makes her admirably equipped to serve in the Air Force in her new post."

Miss Shelly was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Oregon in 1926. She received her master's degree from Columbia in 1929 and taught in the Education Department at Columbia until 1935. She then became Assistant to the Dean of Students at the University of Chicago.

In 1938, she went to Bennington College, Bennington, Vt., as Assistant to the President.

Miss Shelly was commissioned as a lieutenant in the WAVES in September 1942 as one of the first 12 Wave lieutenants. She returned to inactive status as a full commander in March 1946 and received the Secretarial Citation "for outstanding service" from then Navy Secretary James Forrestal.

Miss Shelly returned to Bennington after her Navy service and has been put on leave of absence by the school's trustees for her present duty with the Air Force. At Bennington she has been responsible for the selection of students, and educational programs. She has been on sabbatical leave from Bennington since March for a trip to Europe.

Lease Hotel For School

In what was a reminder of World War II action to provide adequate training facilities, the Air Force this week announced it has leased for one year the Highland Pines Inn at Southern Pines, N. C., to be used in training approximately 125 Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers in the doctrines of coordinated air and ground operations.

Lt. Gen. John K. Cannon, USAF, Commanding General, Tactical Air Command, Langley AFB, Va., reported that the facility, located 40 miles south of Pope AFB, N. C., where the Air Ground Operations School has been functioning, will permit nearly 6,000 students to receive training each year.

Col. Samuel T. Moore has been Commandant of the school for the past six months.

15th AF Deputy C.G.

Brig. Gen. James E. Briggs, USAF, has arrived at March AFB, Calif., from the Far East Air Force Bomber Command, to return to the 15th Air Force for duty as Deputy Commander to Maj. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, jr., USAF.

Strategic Air Command is charged with maintaining the Headquarters of the Bomber Command which is under the operational control of the Commanding General, Far East Air Forces. All SAC personnel assigned to the Bomber Command are on temporary duty basis in order to give as many people as possible training in the field under actual combat conditions. These officers and airmen are therefore rotated at regular intervals; General Briggs, having served nine months, is now replaced by Brig. Gen. Robert H. Terrill, USAF, former Commanding General of the 15th Air Force installation, Castle AFB, Merced, Calif. General Terrill will later be replaced by another SAC general officer in keeping with the above policy.

General Briggs' return to the states completes the rotation of Strategic Air Command personnel who had been sent to FEAF at the outbreak of hostilities.

Medical Policy Council

The Secretary of Defense, General Marshall, has announced the appointment of Dr. Albert Rives Shands, jr., as a member of the Armed Forces Medical Policy Council effective 1 July.

Dr. Shands will occupy the position on the Council formerly held by Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace, II, who accepted, effective 1 July, the appointment as Chairman of the Council.

Dr. Shands is Medical Director of the Nemours Foundation and Surgeon in Chief of the Alfred I. duPont Institute of Wilmington, Del. He has been a civilian medical consultant to the Surgeon Generals of the three services.

During World War II, Dr. Shands served as a colonel in the Army Medical Corps, and continues to hold that rank in the Organized Reserve Corps.

Capt. Harold T. Cunningham, now serving with the 54th Strategic Reconnaissance Squadron, located on Guam, M. I., has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, it is announced by Brig. Gen. W. O. Senter, USAF, Chief, Air Weather Service.

Members of Captain Cunningham's crew who contributed so much to the successful completion of the mission were awarded the Air Medal.

Airmen Promotion Quotas

The Air Force has authorized the temporary promotion of 22,442 airmen during June to fill available vacancies resulting from the expansion program.

Major commands have been told that a total of 1,650 new master sergeants may be made, 2,850 technical sergeants, 4,943 staff sergeants, 8,943 sergeants and 7,056 corporals.

The foregoing quotas represent a slight revision of earlier estimates.

Chaplain Survival Expert

For the first time since 1945, Chaplain (Capt.) Thomas Cunningham of the 5005th USAF Hospital Group has left Alaska for the States, where he will give a series of lectures at the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph AFB, Tex., and at the Air University, Maxwell AFB, Ala. His lectures will be concerned with problems in Arctic survival and the living conditions of Alaskan natives.

Affectionately known as "Father Tom," he has been in the service since 1944. While stationed at the ATC base at Nome, Alaska, Chaplain Cunningham taught methods of survival in the Arctic to the original Search and Rescue Squadron. During World War II, Nome was a stopping-off place en route to Russia.

Father Cunningham came originally to Alaska in 1930 from Mount St. Michaels, Spokane, Wash. While working with the "Holy Cross on the Yukon," a large mission school, he studied Eskimo dialect. His experiences include a seal hunt during which he was lost for three days on drifting pack ice.

Commands Guam Bomb Wg.

Col. Robert W. C. Wimsatt has been assigned as the new commanding officer of the 19th Bombardment Wing on Guam. He was formerly commanding officer of the 6208th Depot Wing, FEAMCOM, and prior to coming overseas in the summer of 1950 was commanding officer of Mitchell AFB, N. Y., and Langley AFB, Va.

Military Pay Increases. Increased Congressional interest in cost-of-living pay increases for military personnel is evidenced in the proposal of Representative James E. Van Zandt (R-Penn.), to tie military pay to the cost-of-living index, and that of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), to increase family allowances for dependents of enlisted personnel. The Congress has under active consideration a measure to increase the base pay of civilian employees of the Government by an average of 8.4 per cent to compensate in part for increased living costs. At the same time the Wage Stabilization Board is considering policies which would permit pay increases in private employment by more than 10 per cent. Under these circumstances, prompt action should be taken by the Congress to provide comparable advances in pay and allowances for the members of the Armed Services. The most recent pay increase for service personnel was in October 1949, and the amount granted was substantially less than that recommended by the Hook Commission, which had completed exhaustive studies comparing military pay with that received by employees of commercial and industrial firms. Since that time the cost of living has risen sharply and income tax deductions have been increased, with still higher taxes in prospect. As a result, in the last few months the take-home pay of members of the Services, particularly of the officers and senior non-commissioned officers, has actually decreased, while the hazards and responsibilities due to the Korean conflict have become much greater. The Congress should take immediate action to remedy this situation by providing additional pay and allowances. Any general pay increase for civilian employees, without comparable advances for military personnel, would be rank discrimination against those who are fighting and dying for our national security.

The Army's Birthday. On next Wednesday, 14 June, will occur the 176th anniversary of the organization of the United States Army. The Army, created by the Second Continental Congress on 14 June 1775, under the command of General George Washington, is more than a year older than this country, since we fix the nation's birth on 4 July 1776, the date of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. There will be no special celebration of the Army's birthday this year, but in Korea there will be an appropriate and continuing salute fired by the Army's rifles, machine guns, mortars and artillery into the ranks of the enemy. Throughout the century and three-quarters of our country's history as a free nation, the Army has served it well in peace and war. From the War of Independence to the police action in Korea the Army has contributed mightily to our military victories. In peace it has guarded our security at frontier Indian posts and at distant overseas garrisons. Its normal range of service has been from Arctic wastes to tropic jungles. Through the years the Army marked out the trails of the pioneers, protected them from hostile savages, provided communications and transportation, and in every section of the nation and its overseas outposts it has been intimately associated with the development and progress of the country. In major disasters the Army has always been available to maintain order, to succor the afflicted, to feed the hungry and to shelter the homeless. In our successive wars, combat weapons and tactics have changed greatly over the years, but the cool determination and exalted courage of the American soldier have remained supreme. Modern wars are fought on the sea and in the air, as well as on land,

READERS' VIEWS

War Crimes Trials

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I refer to your editorial "War Crimes Trials" in your 19 May 1951 issue. I believe that Gen. MacArthur's statement should be given the interpretation that despite the Nuremberg and Tokyo trials some persons were not deterred as is evidenced by the commission of war crimes in Korea.

While the General may be competent to discuss the Tokyo trials, the Nuremberg trials accomplished work which could not have been accomplished by a "military commission." A "military commission" might have the power to deal with crimes committed against the Armed Forces of our country, but it would be difficult to see how a "military commission" could cover the broad scope which the Nuremberg trials covered.

The International Military Tribunal which was erected covered violations of international law as evidenced in the breaking of treaties by Germany, violations of tenets of morality considered common to all civilized people.

It is felt by many students of international law and plain people everywhere that the Nuremberg trial was right and necessary. The Tribunal carried into effect punishments for breaches of basic principles of justice, recognized by civilized nations within their own codes of municipal law. That the Nuremberg decisions and the principles enunciated at those decisions have been watered down by political expediency, does not detract from their validity.

It would seem that Gen. MacArthur would have had some power to guide the Tokyo trials, if he were not satisfied with their accomplishments. However, the Nuremberg trials represent a monumental effort on the part of the countries involved to secure some small measure of justice for millions ruthlessly degraded, plundered and then murdered.

Lester Lichter.

committees, Armed Services and Foreign Relations, are involved. Moreover, the hearings are under the ever-present shadow of political interests. Strong personalities are in opposition to other strong personalities. Intellect, emotion, and personal interests are ever ready to flare up. Yet for nearly a month Senator Russell's leadership and skill as chairman have won the praise of all involved. He has been impartial and considerate toward witnesses, members of both committees, and of both parties. At the conclusion of Secretary Marshall's testimony he praised both the Secretary and General MacArthur for their patience in answering all questions (which were often repetitious) and their physical stamina in sitting uncomplainingly through many days of many hours. He pointed out that the members of the committee were free to come and go as they pleased but the witnesses continued on. Observers noted that this was even more true of Senator Russell, for he himself has stayed continuously in the chair through weeks of hearings and has displayed a knowledge of what has gone before which can come only from a daily rereading of the transcript. The Services are particularly happy that the new chairman of their committee has displayed these valuable qualities.

Urges Use of Retired Personnel

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

On this important question of employment of retired personnel, it would seem that due to current policies the Armed Services may be chargeable with failure to use much available man power.

Many retired soldiers, sailors and airmen are capable of performing administrative and instructional duties. Many of those so able would welcome a recall to active duty under a regulation (no law required) which would insure that during such duty they would be exempt from change of duty or station except with their own consent. Also that the duty would continue for a reasonable number of years, subject, of course, to efficient performance. Under such conditions, retired personnel could be used to advantage for administrative or instructional duties in many posts, camps and stations, in many headquarters and other installations, with benefit to themselves, and with great advantage to the services.

A brief study of this matter shows that retired personnel could be used to advantage in many places now occupied by rather expensive civilian employees.

Examples are:

Cost of Civilian Employee per Mo.	Cost of Comparable Officer or EM recalled to AD per Mo. (20 Yrs Svc)	Difference between Retired pay & AD pay per Mo. (20 Yrs Svc 75%)	Saved by using Retired Pers in place of Civ. GS
GS2 $204.00	Sgt $280.65	$120.74	$ 84.21
GS5 258.00	M/Sgt 331.10	154.70	103.30
GS7 318.00	1st Lt 473.62	211.77	106.23

DUE in part, at least, to the direct mediation of the United States, there are some indications that an amicable settlement may be reached in the explosive Anglo-Iranian oil dispute that had become a sudden menace to world peace. After receipt of similar letters President Truman counseling moderation, the premiers of England and Iran took preliminary steps toward opening negotiations. The British agreed to the appointment of a delegation to meet with the Iranian commission charged with the seizure of the British oil properties in Iran, and the Iranian premier indicated that actual confiscation might be temporarily deferred.

The Persian National Front party of Mohammed Mossadegh, the radical new premier, rode to power on the slogan of oil nationalization, after his predecessor in office and a member of his cabinet, who had opposed nationalization, were assassinated by members of an extreme anti-foreign Moslem sect. However, in doing so the Mossadegh party unleashed a violent anti-foreign agitation that it appears to be unable to curb. The fanatical leader of the Moslem group responsible for the assassinations was arrested this week, but his devoted followers are threatening riots and bloodshed unless he is promptly released.

While it is believed that Mossadegh and the responsible members of his government now favor a more moderate program in dealing with the British, they find it expedient to continue publicly to denounce British imperialism and inveigh against any thought of compromise. At the same time, they are no doubt quite anxious for a face-saving settlement that would permit the resumption of the flow of British oil royalties into the depleted Iranian treasury.

It is understood that the British are now willing to admit the principle of nationalization, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made for adequate compensation, and, more important, for continued British access to this great source of petroleum. It is possible that a long-term lease to the British company might replace the repudiated concession. Payments to Iran under such a lease would undoubtedly be substantially greater than heretofore, even after deductions for compensation for the seized property. Such a settlement would provide the Iranians with sorely needed revenue, and would not deprive the British of this vital oil supply.

While the situation is much more hopeful than a week ago the British government continues to prepare for any eventuality. A brigade of British paratroopers left England by sea this week for Cyprus, 1,000 miles from Iran.

► AT A MEETING IN WASHINGTON this week, representatives of 16 members of the United Nations participating actively in the Korean conflict decided against any new peace offer to the Chinese Reds. It was felt that the Communists had shown no inclination to end hostilities and there were no signs that they would be receptive to any new proposal. Thus, it appears that, for the present at least, any overtures for a cease-fire agreement in Korea must come from the Chinese Reds, or their masters, the Russians.

Rumors of possible peace negotiations had been prevalent for the past two weeks, particularly since the second phase of the Red spring offensive in Korea resulted in a staggering Communist defeat. Some diplomats, principally British, thought that this situation might create a favorable atmosphere for peace discussions. However, the delegate to the United Nations from Communist Poland, apparently speaking for the Red bloc, made it clear that the only terms that would be considered would include handing over Formosa to the Chinese Communists and admission of Red China to the United Nations. Such conditions are wholly unacceptable to the majority of the United Nations membership.

At a meeting of the United Nations Trusteeship Council this week the Russian delegate made the usual motion for the substitution of a Chinese Communist representative for the Chinese nationalist. He received no support from any other country represented on the Council. Britain, which previously had voted for such a substitution, reversed her position, with the explanation that the British government was fed up with the aggression of the Chinese Communists in Korea, and hence would oppose the participation of Red China in United Nations activities. This reversal makes any chance for admission of the Chinese Communists to the United Nations appear remote.

► THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT this week accepted the invitation to attend a Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Washington on 23 July, but only if the Atlantic Treaty and the American military bases in Europe are among the subjects to be discussed. Since these matters were specifically excluded from the agenda by the United States, Great Britain and France the Russian acceptance is in reality a rejection. Deputies of the four foreign ministers have been meeting in Paris for 14 weeks, trying to agree on a program for the proposed meeting of their chiefs. Although there were numerous points of difference the principal stumbling block was Russian insistence on including as topics for discussion the Atlantic Alliance and American bases in Europe. Since the Allies had no intention of modifying their position with respect to these subjects they felt it would be useless to schedule them for consideration.

► THE SUDDEN RESIGNATION of Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, the exceedingly able chief of the armed forces of Greece, apparently because of friction with some of King Paul's advisers at court, has caused concern among American diplomats. Marshal Papagos is regarded as a brilliant soldier, with no political ambition. He has the confidence of the Greek people and is considered indispensable as a military leader of Greece in the present tense international situation. When news of his resignation reached Washington, American Ambassador John Peurifoy, who was in this country on a visit, flew back to Athens, where he conferred with the king, Prime Minister Sophocles Venizelos, and Marshal Papagos. Subsequently it was reported that there was little chance that the marshal's resignation might be withdrawn. The controversy has aroused considerable public feeling, and it may result in a general election being held immediately, instead of in September as previously scheduled.

► THE MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE of two persons holding key posts in the British foreign office, with the possibility that they might have gone to Moscow, occasioned great concern this week in British and American diplomatic circles. The missing diplomats are D. D. MacLean, head of the American department of the foreign office, and Guy F. DeM. Burgess, until recently second secretary of the British embassy in Washington. Both had extensive and detailed knowledge of British and American relations and current negotiations with respect to matters of great interest to the Soviet Union. Neither was regarded as a Communist sympathizer, but one report is that they recently informed a friend that they were going to Moscow "to serve their idealistic purposes." They left England on 25 May and went to France, and a few days ago their families received Paris cables from them.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Air Force Enlistments Down—Members of Congressional committees were reported this week to be seeking data regarding a marked decline in Air Force enlistments during the past several weeks.

Although the Department of Defense has declined to release data on this matter, there are indications that Air Force enlistments are considerably below quotas. The Congressional concern results from testimony of General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff, that a large buildup of the Air Force is urgent to meet worldwide obligations.

It is recalled that early this year Air Force enlistments were under criticism because too many men were being brought into the Service too quickly, for which the Air Force, although fulfilling a mandate to expand its active duty strength as quickly as possible, was criticized by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Now, apparently as a result of policies set by Department of Defense personnel officials, the Air Force is being handicapped in obtaining sufficient enlistments to meet immediate needs. Thus, where Congress recently was critical of too fast an enlistment rate, legislators now are said to be concerned because the pendulum has swung too far in the opposite direction.

Army Chaplain Decorated—Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Mitchell W. Phillips, executive officer of The Chaplain School, Ft. Slocum, N. Y. was awarded the Legion of Merit at a retreat formation held at school on 1 June. Chaplain Phillips, who recently joined The Chaplains School staff, was division chaplain of the 25th Infantry Division in Korea until his return to the United States in April. His citation, which was awarded for the period of 14 July to 2 Nov. 1950, calls attention to exceptionally meritorious service with his division, particularly in connection with his influence on junior chaplains of the unit. In addition, says the citation, "his inspiring leadership afforded immeasurable assistance to the division commander in maintaining excellent morale and esprit de corps among his fighting forces, thereby furthering the United Nations' mission for peace and freedom in Korea." Chaplain Phillips also has received the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, the Commendation Ribbon and the Purple Heart.

Iceland Defense Force—Brig. Gen. E. J. McGaw, USA, commander of the unified force of U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force personnel in Iceland, has announced the assignment of Col. Andrew D. Moore, USAF, as Air Base Commander and Air Force Deputy. Colonel Moore previously was in training for assignment with the Military Air Advisory Group in Denmark.

At the same time, it was reported that Col. Aubrey S. Newman, USA, former commanding officer, 511th Airborne Infantry Regiment, 11th Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell, Ky., is serving as Chief of Staff of the Iceland Defense Force. Lt. Col. Kenneth C. Robertson, USA, formerly assigned to the Tactics Department, U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., is Plans, Operations and Training Officer.

Soviet Air Strength—According to a British publication, the Russians now have approximately 19,000 warplanes, about half of them fighters. The Royal Air Force Review, an official publication predicted that in another year the Soviet air strength will reach 30,000 planes. It was stated that production is being emphasized on the Mig-15, the Lavochkin, a speedier jet fighter plane, and a twin-jet bomber.

Soviet bomber strength was placed at around 7,000 planes.

Army Field Forces—Lt. Gen. Guy Granville Simonds, Chief of Staff, Canadian Army visited Ft. Monroe, Va. on 31 May to confer on training problems with General Mark W. Clark, with whom he served in the Italian campaign during World War II. Upon his arrival General Simonds was greeted by an honor guard ceremony. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. J. P. E. Bernatche, Director General of Military Training, Canadian Army, and Lt. J. E. Craik, Canadian Army, aide-de-camp.

Maj. General Joseph P. Sullivan, Chief of Army Field Forces Quartermaster Section, and Col. G. E. Fingarson, Chief, Transportation Section, OCAFF, attended the final review at Fort Eustis, Va., given in the honor of Maj. Gen. Walter J. Muller, Commanding General, who will join General Eisenhower's staff in Paris.

Giant Airlift Rotates Marines—In a gigantic two-day airlift, the Marine Corps rotated more than 1,350 Marine infantrymen from the front lines and replaced them with fresh troops. Replacements were flown from a South Korean port city by six Douglas R5D transports of the First Marine Air Wing. As the planes unloaded the fresh combat troops at the front, homeward bound veterans climbed aboard for the first leg of their trip to the States. The Marine Corps said that "some pilots flew as many as 12 hours a day" in order to make the switchover in so short a time. The operation was directed by Lt. Col. John S. Carter.

Six Years in Pacific, Now Wants Europe—Sgt. Arlie L. Hatfield, who has been on duty overseas for the past six years with the 1st Cavalry Division in the Pacific, is due to be rotated to the U. S. in the near future. He hopes then to be able to arrange a tour of military duty in Europe.

Sergeant Hatfield, assistant director of the 1st Cavalry Division Band, joined that division in April 1945 and has been with it since.

Seeks Data on Lt. Biggs—The base librarian at Biggs AFB, Tex., Dorothea Magdalene Fox, is attempting to locate an officer who passed through that base recently on an emergency flight to El Paso, Tex., and who had been a young friend of "Buster" Biggs, for whom the base is named.

The librarian wants to compile as complete and well-rounded a picture of Lieutenant Biggs' childhood as possible. The officer who chatted briefly with library officials during his short stay at Biggs AFB—he is believed to be a Naval officer—is asked to communicate with Librarian Fox.

Draft Bill Passes, UMT Deferred—The Universal Military Training and Service Act, as revised by a conference committee of the Senate and House, was finally passed by the House of Representatives on 7 June, after having been previously passed by the Senate. The measure was sent to the White House for the approval of the President. The new legislation, pending since January, lowers the draft age from 19 to 18½, and provides for the establishment of Universal Military Training, but defers the induction of any registrant for such training until the Congress has enacted further legislation covering a code of conduct and providing for death and disability benefits, and has considered such other legislative recommendations as may be submitted by a new Commission provided for in the law. The bill also specifies that there will be no inductions for training until the period of service required of registrants under 19 has been reduced or eliminated by the President or the Congress.

The act creates a National Security Training Commission to be composed of five members appointed by the President, the chairman and two other members to be civilians and the other two active or retired members of the Regular components of the Services. With the appointment of the Commission, the National Security Training Corps is established, but its active operation will await further legislation. The commission, which will have general supervision over training, is required to submit its legislative recommendations to Congress through the Secretary of Defense within four months, after which the Armed Services committees are directed to report out appropriate bills within 45 days. Such measures will be privileged and may be called up for action by any member of either House.

The period of service of members of the Training Corps is fixed at six months and their pay at $30 per month. They may be called for training at any time after reaching their 18th birthday. They will not be eligible for overseas assignment. The total obligated service of members is eight years, including active or inactive service in the reserve components.

Aside from the Universal Training features, the new law, as passed by Congress, extends Selective Service to 1 July 1955 and provides for 24 months service, instead of 21 as at present. While lowering the draft age to 18½, the measure provides that no one below the age of 19 shall be inducted so long as there are available to the local board registrants between 19 and 25. It lowers the physical and mental requirements to those in effect in 1945, thus making eligible for service a considerable number now exempted.

Persons inducted for service under the draft are to be obligated for eight years' total service, including membership in reserve components. Until 1 July 1953 the President will be authorized to order reserve and retired personnel to active duty for 24 months, but those who served a year or more in World War II may be released to inactive duty after 17 months active service, upon their own application.

High school students may be deferred until graduation or until reaching the age of 20, and college students may be deferred until completion of an academic year. All inductees must have a minimum of four months training before assignment overseas. Current enlistments expiring after 9 July 1951 may be extended involuntarily for 12 months, but no enlistment shall be extended more than once under this provision.

Conscientious objectors will be assigned for 24 months to work that contributes to the national health, safety, welfare or interest. Occupational deferments may be granted under rules prescribed by the President.

Until 31 July 1954 the active duty strength of the Armed Forces is fixed at a maximum of 5,000,000, though no material increase beyond the present authorization of 3,500,000 is contemplated. Until 31 July 1954 the two per cent limitation of the strength of women in the Armed Forces is suspended.

The permanent authorized strength of the Armed Forces is fixed at 837,000 for the Army, 666,832, for the Navy, including the Marines, and 502,000 for the Air Force. These limiting figures do not apply in the present emergency.

The new legislation permits the enlistment in the Regular Army until 1 July 1954 of not more than 12,500 aliens.

Air Rescue Service—The third annual Air Rescue Service commanders conference will be held during the week of 11-16 June at Headquarters, Air Rescue Service, Barton Hall, Washington, D. C. Included among the ARS commanders attending the meeting, will be Lt. Col. Klair E. Back, Commanding Officer of the Japan-based 3d Air Rescue Squadron, which has provided air rescue support of United Nations forces since last summer. A special helicopter detachment of the 3d Air Rescue Squadron, operating at or near front lines in Korea, is credited with the rescue or evacuation of more than 1,609 UN military personnel, 450 of whom have been picked up from behind enemy lines.

Commanding officers of all 10 Air Rescue Squadrons, deployed throughout the world, and the 2156th Air Rescue Unit, a Technical Training Unit, will discuss pertinent problems and future planning with Col. Richard T. Kight, Air Rescue Service Commanding Officer and his staff.

Air Rescue Service commanders scheduled to attend the meeting are: Lt. Col. George T. Prior, 1st Air Rescue Squadron, MacDill AFB, Fla.; Lt. Col. George O. McCafferty, 2d Air Rescue Squadron, Clark AFB, Philippines; Lt. Col. Klair E. Back, 3d Air Rescue Squadron, Johnson AFB, Japan; Lt. Col. Justin C. Gunnison, 4th Air Rescue Squadron, Hamilton AFB, Calif.; Lt. Col. Edward D. Gaitley, 5th Air Rescue Squadron, Westover AFB, Mass.; Lt. Col. John D. Nichols, jr., 6th Air Rescue Squadron, Pepperrell AFB, Nfld.; Lt. Col. Walter Hamberg, jr., 7th Air Rescue Squadron, Wheelus Field, Tripoli, Libya; Lt. Col. Lloyd R. Humphreys, 9th Air Rescue Squadron, Bushy Park, England; Col. Patrick R. Arnold, 10th Air Rescue Squadron, Elmendorf AFB, Alaska; Lt. Col. Donald E. Matthews, 11th Air Rescue Squadron, Hickam AFB, Hawaii; and Lt. Col. C. Hunter Smith, 2156th Air Rescue Unit (TTU), MacDill AFB, Fla.

PACFLEET Dental Officer—Capt. Curtiss W. Schantz, DC, USN, head of the dental department at Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training Center for the past five years, left 1 June for the top dental position in the Pacific Fleet. He will be Fleet Dental Officer on the staff of the Commander, Pacific Fleet, with a similar position on the staff of the Commander, Service Forces, Pacific. One of his first tasks will be to make a survey of field dental facilities available to the Naval Forces in Korea. He will also inspect navy dental facilities in Japan.

Captain Schantz will relieve Capt. Rae D. Pitton, DC, USN, in the Pacific post, after which Captain Pitton will report to Great Lakes to head the dental department there. For the present Capt. George D. Odiorno, DC, USN, will be Great Lakes dental officer.

Having come to Great Lakes in 1946 from the staff of the Commander, Philippine Sea Frontier, Captain Schantz is moving back into familiar territory. He also served on the China Station from 1937 to 1939 and was in the battleship USS Nevada during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

General Feldman Awarded Honorary Degree—Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman, USA, The Quartermaster General, was the recipient of the honorary degree of Master of Science, conferred on him by the Lowell Mass. Textile Institute, at commencement exercises on 4 June. In accepting the honor which was presented by Martin J. Lydon, president of the Institute, General Feldman told members of the graduating class that there never was a time in our history of our country when a greater challenge was presented to a group of technology graduates than that existing today.

"It is for young persons like yourselves," General Feldman said, "to take up the torch in the support and defense of our country, whether it is in the Armed Forces or in an essential civilian capacity. I could express no greater wish for you than the hope that you will be able to devise better solutions for the ailments of a sick world than have been attained up to the present."

Discussing future prospects of the textile industry, the general said broad horizons of opportunity are beckoning. "From the present world struggle," he said, "there is certain to result an ever-increasing demand for consumer goods. This will entail, among other things, a tax on the ingenuity of the industry to meet these demands both in increased quantities and in the greater diversity of products needed to meet a wider variety of needs. It will probably involve a gradual break with many age-old concepts of fibers, yarns, weaves, and methods of manufacture as well as designs of end items," he declared.

Coast and Geodetic Survey—Rear Adm. Kenneth T. Adams, Assistant Director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, retired on 31 May after 39 years service.

During his many years in field surveys, Admiral Adams played a prominent part in the development and improvement of hydrographic and photogrammetric surveying methods which has brought him international recognition. He pioneered in the use of precise astronomic control for offshore hydrography and was associated with the initial use and development of echo-sounding and radio acoustic ranging. The Hydrographic Manual, compiled and edited by Admiral Adams, has gained recognition throughout the maritime world as the undisputed authority on the subject.

His untiring efforts in the study of geographic nomenclature have made the Coast and Geodetic Survey a leader in the proper use of place names appearing on maps and charts. With the approval of the Secretary of Commerce, he will continue to serve after his retirement as the Department of Commerce member on the United States Board on Geographic Names.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Adams reside at 4103 North Chesterbrook Road, Falls Church, Va.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer this week administered the oath of office to Robert W. Knox as Assistant Director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey with the rank of Rear Admiral. He served during World War I in the 44th Infantry Division, US Army. Immediately upon completing his college education in June 1923, he entered on duty in the Coast and Geodetic Survey and was commissioned Ensign during that year.

Prior to his appointment, Admiral Knox served as Chief of the Division of Charts of the Washington office for the past year. In this capacity he was responsible for the production and distribution of all nautical and aeronautical charts issued by the Bureau for use of the Merchant Marine, civil aviation, and the Armed Forces; the compilation of a number of related publications; and the operation of the Bureau's reproduction plant.

Military Police Corps—Col. John K. Daly, MPC Provost Marshal, U. S. Army Caribbean, and Lt. Col. Earl S. Bessmer, MPC, Executive Officer of the United Nations Prisoner of War Camp in Korea, have been selected to attend the next regular course at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., reporting in late August.

Also named to attend high-level institutions were Col. Thomas F. Lancer, MPC, Provost Marshal, Military District of Washington, who will go to the next regular course at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, and Lt. Col. William M. Campbell, MPC, who will return from the Far East Command to attend the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va.

Lt. Col. Eugene Keller, jr., Armor, and Major Edward R. Lewitz, MPC, have reported for duty in the Office of The Provost Marshal General. Colonel Keller, who served as a military government officer in the European Theater from January 1944 through October 1948, and subsequently as deputy chief and chief of the New York Field Office, Office for Occupied Areas, OSA, has been assigned to the Military Government Division. Maj. Lewitz, an Infantry company commander in the Naples-Foggia, Rome-Arno, Anzio, and Rhineland campaigns, and for the past three years a tactics instructor at The Provost Marshal General's School, has been assigned to the Training Division.

Admiral Named "Student of Year"—Rear Adm. Forrest A. Rhoades, USN (Ret.), 57, has been named "Student of the Year" at Bradley University. The retired Navy officer, a veteran of 34 years' service, entered the University last year to take a four-year course in jewelry store management.

Army Social Work Service—Lt. Col. Leslie E. Starks, Social Services Branch, Psychiatry and Neurology Consultants Division, Army Surgeon General's Office is at Valley Forge Army Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa., for the purpose of supervising the new Army Social Work Service pilot project which is now in progress at Valley Forge Army Hospital. The pilot study was established to work out uniform procedures in expanding the Army's social service program. Formerly confined to work with neuropsychiatric patients, the program will include medical and surgical patients as well. Upon withdrawal of the Red Cross later this month, the Valley Forge program will be extended to all Army hospitals.

Army Signal Corps—The following Signal Corps Officers, upon their completion of the course at the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., will be assigned on or about 30 June as indicated: Lt. Col. George W. Rhyne, Signal Corps Photographic Center, Long Island City, N. Y.; Lt. Col. David R. Guy, Signal Corps Center, Fort Monmouth, N. J.; Lt. Col. Harold McD. Brown, Munitions Board; and Lt. Col. George E. Pickett, Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4.

Get a FOLEY
SILVER
WASHER & DRIER

If you are looking for—

SILVER SANITATION

Foley turns out large volumes of clinically clean silverware. Foley-washed silver showed a bacteria count of 6, four hours after washing — but silver washed in dishwasher showed 13,400 growth. Foley removes all food stains, grease, film from stainless and other silverware each washing.

NO TOWELING — Fully automatic
Foley washes, rinses AND DRIES.

DEPENDABILITY—Precision machined parts plus 15 years experience assure dependable operation with unskilled help.

Saves its cost in 2 to 6 months.

.0002" TOLERANCE OVER
A 14-FOOT SPAN!
Machining this 14-foot
extrusion into a precision antenna was one of the tougher jobs Gilfillan solved. To do it, Gilfillan developed a special plaster vise. The extrusion, set in this vise, settled to its natural position
while the plaster hardened. Then it was machined to .0002"
tolerance with no chance of springing out of

UNIQUE INSPECTION SYSTEM FOR QUALITY CONTROL. One reason for Gilfillan's acknowledged success in making "precision-plus" electronic equipment is its unusual inspection system setup.
A staff of 140 highly skilled inspectors reports directly to the head of the company.

13 MILES OF CIRCUITRY
SIMPLIFIED! Each production
GCA has 13 miles of circuitry. Making it simple to assemble and simple to maintain was a challenge of major dimensions. Standard color coding of wiring wouldn't work. Therefore,
Gilfillan devised a system of identifying each wire by imprinting indelible numbers at one-inch intervals!

GCA Gilfillan
LOS ANGELES
FIRST AND FINAL WORD IN GCA RADAR

TOWER CONSOLE. Gilfillan's new remoting equipment "pipes" GCA into the tower from the field antenna units. Now GCA is operated by one man of the regular tower personnel from a compact, two-scope tower console, instead of the former bulky five-man, multi-scope equipment.

MRS. J. Lawton Collins, wife of the Army Chief of Staff, was hostess at a luncheon on 6 June at her quarters at Ft. Lesley J. McNair, honoring the wives of the Army Commanders, who accompanied their husbands to Washington this week. The guest list included Mrs. Henry S. Aurand, Mrs. Wade H. Haislip, Mrs. John E. Hull, Mrs. Raymond S. McLain, Mrs. Thomas W. Herren, Mrs. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Mrs. Willis D. Crittenger, Mrs. Mark W. Clark and Mrs. Edward H. Brooks.

The Army Navy Country Club was the setting for the annual spring luncheon and business meeting of the Navy Supply Corps Wives Association on 7 June. Mrs. C. W. Fox, wife of Rear Admiral Fox, Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, presided and Mrs. E. D. Vestal, jr., Executive Chairman, conducted the business meeting.

The annual election of officers, as well as a short business meeting, followed the luncheon at which time it was announced that another donation would be made to Children's Hospital. Hostesses were: Mrs. L. Smith, Chairman; Mrs. C. S. Sharocks; Mrs. J. C. Hetler; and Mrs. W. R. Wright.

Of unusual interest to the many friends of Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Hanley, jr., USAF, and Mrs. Hanley of 304 Essex Ave., Chevy Chase, Md., is that on 17 June, their son, Dexter Long Hanley, will be ordained in the Catholic priesthood at Woodstock College, Md. On the following Sunday, 24 June, he will hold his first Solemn Mass, which will be celebrated at the Dahlgren Chapel of Georgetown University, Washington, returning later to Woodstock College for one year. General and Mrs. Hanley have another son, Lt. Col. Thomas J. Hanley, 3d, USAF, who is at present stationed at Tullahoma, Tenn. Their only daughter, Cecile, 14, is at the family home in Chevy Chase.

Col. and Mrs. L. D. Pegg were the honors guests at a cocktail party given by Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. P. Haffa, at their quarters at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., 30 May, on the occasion of Colonel Pegg's departure for duty in the Far East. The guest list included Col. and Mrs. B. Stern, Col. and Mrs. E. A. Kenny, Col. and Mrs. W. J. Given, Col. and Mrs. R. C. Walton, Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. E. Kelsey, Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. F. Thomas, Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. Walker, Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. E. Frame, Lt. Col. and Mrs. A. T. Stannix-Hay and Capt. and Mrs. A. B. Komoroske.

Charles H. Gerhardt, jr., son of Col. and Mrs. C. H. Gerhardt, Headquarters Second Army, Fort George G. Meade, Md., was graduated from The Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., 3 June as a member of the Class of 1951. The Commencement address was presented by The Honorable Edward W. Barrett, The Hill, '28, Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs.

At the Sixth Form Dinner 'Chuck' was awarded the Varsity letter and sweater for baseball. He will spend a busy summer attending Sullivan Prep, and as a member of Company A, 175th Infantry, 29th Division. He will enter Duke University with the Class of 1955 and hopes to enter West Point with the Class of 1956. Mr. Gerhardt is the grandson of Brig. Gen. Charles Gerhardt, Ret., Class of 1887, USMA.

Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Foster, who retired as Army Chief of Finance on 31

SERVICE SOCIAL NEWS

MISS BARBARA JOANNE BELDEN

daughter of Col. and Mrs. Hugh Belden will be married in October to Lt. Robert William Phillips, USMC, son of Col. and Mrs. Earl H. Phillips.

MRS. JAMES B. KINTZ

was the former Miss Ann Childress Ford, daughter of Mrs. George A. Ford and the late Colonel Ford, USA, before her marriage on 6 June at West Point, N. Y., to 2d Lt. James Richard Kintz, USA, USMA '51, son of Col. and Mrs. Francis P. Kintz.

MRS. PAUL J. MUELLER, JR.

was the former Miss Ann Horton Klepinger, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Walter J. Klepinger, before her marriage on 2 June at Ft. Bragg, N. C., to Lt. Paul John Mueller, jr., USA, USMA '50, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Paul J. Mueller, USA.

May, was the honor guest at a dinner dance given by the Finance Corps officers of the Washington area (Regular, Reserve, National Guard, and Retired) on 2 June at the Officers Club, Fort Lesley J. McNair. The guests were received by General and Mrs. Foster, with Col. and Mrs. Leighton N. Smith. Colonel Smith is the Acting Chief of Finance pending the appointment of a new Chief to succeed General Foster.

The wives of the West Point class of January 1943 will hold a luncheon on 12 June, at Collingwood-on-the-Potomac. The hostesses will be Mrs. Francis X. Kane and Mrs. Cecil W. Page. The business meeting will follow the luncheon and will be presided over by Mrs. O. W. DeGruchy.

Maj. Homer J. Grubb, AUS-Ret., and Mrs. Grubb are now residing at 945 Elizabeth St., New Braunfels, Tex.

A recent report of an Ordnance Corps garden party held late last month was partly in error. The fete was held at the homes of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John K. Christmas and Col. and Mrs. Richard Crane. Erroneously, it had been reported to the JOURNAL that one of the homes used for the party was that of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Alfred B. Quinton.

Weddings and Engagements

The wedding will take place in October.

Of wide interest throughout Service circles was the late afternoon marriage on 2 June at the Post Chapel, Ft. Bragg, N. C., of two Army juniors, Miss Ann Horton Klepinger to Lt. Paul John Mueller, Jr., USA, USMA '50.

The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Walter J. Klepinger, USA, presently of London, England, and Lieutenant Mueller is the son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Paul J. Mueller, USA, of Washington, D. C.

Chaplain R. R. Bell of the 505th Airborne, Ft. Bragg, performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and her maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Mueller of New York City, sister of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Burnside Huffman of Columbus, Ga., wife of Major Huffman and daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John F. Uncles, USA; Miss Barbara Heck of Baltimore, Md., and Miss Sally Edwards of Alexandria, Va., daughter of Col. and Mrs. Sheffield Edwards.

Best man for Lieutenant Mueller was Lt. James Drewry, Ft. Benning, Ga., and groomsmen were Lt. Boyd Bayshore of Ft. Benning, Ga., and Maj. William Thomas, 3d, Lts. Stanley Osborne, Walter Vannoy and Henry Sackers, all of Ft. Bragg.

Following the ceremony, Colonel and Mrs. Klepinger were hosts at a reception at the Officers' Club at Ft. Bragg. Those assisting Mrs. Klepinger were Mrs. Terry A. Lyon, Mrs. Ralph Hirsch, Mrs. Sheffield

Edwards, Mrs. Robert N. Young, Mrs. William Grove and Mrs. Clyde Hallam.

After their wedding trip, Lieutenant and Mrs. Mueller will be at home at Ft. Benning, where the bridegroom is stationed with the 508th Airborne.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil P. Pharr of Amarillo, Tex. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Bernice, to Capt. Myron G. Ehrlich, USNR., at present, Commanding Officer of the Volunteer Law Division of the Potomac River Naval Command, Washington, D. C.

Miss Pharr attended Texas Technological College at Lubbock, Tex., before coming to Washington, where she has been engaged in the fashion and merchandising field.

Captain Ehrlich, a native of Washington, had five years of active duty with the Navy, during which time, he served as Inspector General of all Naval Courts and Legal Offices, Special Assistant to the Under Secretary of the Navy, and Legal Advisor to the U. S. High Commissioner to the Philippines.

The wedding is planned for 7 July.

A wedding of special interest this week to the many friends of both families throughout the Services was that of Miss Laura Carey Sibert, daughter of Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, USA, and Mrs. Sibert of Washington, D. C. and Martha's Vineyard, Mass., and Capt. Albert Cowper Smith, Jr., USA, of Ft. Clayton, C. Z., son of Maj. Gen. Albert Cowper Smith, USA, and Mrs. Smith of Ft. Sheridan, Ill.

The late afternoon ceremony was performed by Chaplain Arthur Finnegan. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace and net over satin and her fingertip illusion veil fell from a Juliet cap of matching lace. Her bouquet was of jungle orchids which the bridegroom had flown up from Panama.

Mrs. William C. Sibert of Ft. Bragg, N. C., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Marion Chapin of Grosse Point, Mich., Martha Moore of Ardsley-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., Ada Lou Haines of Alexandria, Va., and Kathleen Ennis of Sumner, Md. General Smith was best man for his son, and the two ushers were the brothers of the bride, Mr. Edwin L. Sibert, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Capt. William C. Sibert of Ft. Bragg.

Following the ceremony, General and Mrs. Sibert received the guests at a reception at the Officers' Club at Ft. Lesley J. McNair. Mrs. Sibert wore a gown of navy blue lace and organza and the bridegroom's mother was attired in orchid blue lace.

Weddings and Engagements

The bride attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., and Mt. Vernon Junior College, Washington. Captain Smith is an alumnus of Georgetown University.

The engagement of Maj. John T. Alstrom, Jr., and Capt. Marguerite L. Vandever was announced at a cocktail party in the Anza Room of the Officers' Club, Presidio of San Francisco, on Saturday, 2 June.

On 1 June at the Chapel of the Holy Spirit of the Washington Cathedral, Washington, D. C., Miss Patricia Jane Huckins, daughter of Col. Joseph Huckins, Chief of the Counter Intelligence Corps board of the CIC Center at Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Huckins, became the bride of Capt. Fred John Archibald, USA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred I. Archibald of Loudonville, N. Y.

Canon Luther Miller of the Washington Cathedral, former Chief of Army Chaplains, performed the ceremony in the presence of members of the immediate families.

Mrs. Archibald is a graduate of the Hockaday School for Girls at Dallas, Tex., and she attended the Parsons School of Design in New York. She is an artist and technical illustrator.

Captain Archibald is presently assigned as Aide-de-Camp to Lt. Gen. Harold R. Bull, Commandant of the National War College, Washington. He attended the Browning School, New York City, the Albany Academy and Cornell University, before entering the U. S. Military Academy, where he was graduated in 1945. He served in the Philippines from 1945 to 1947 with the 86th Division and later was Officer-in-Charge of the Daily Pacifican, Manila.

The couple will reside in Washington.

Miss Diane Mary Hutchins and 1st Lt. Charles Douglas Friedlander, USA, were married 12 May at the Chapel at West Point, N. Y., by Chaplain Frank E. Pulley. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Hutchins of Sunnyside, L. I., N. Y., and Lieutenant Friedlander is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray L. Friedlander of Long Island City, N. Y.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organdy with a tulle and Chantilly lace veil and she carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ronne Curtis was maid of honor and 2d Lt. Gail F. Wilson served as best man.

Lieutenant Friedlander, a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, Class of '50, had participated in combat in Korea with the 3d Division. He is now stationed at Ft. Dix, N. J.

Miss Julia Dean Lessley of Paso Robles, Calif., and Mr. Hans Ernst Kleinfeldt of Bremen, Germany, were united in marriage 27 May in a ceremony at Camp Roberts, Calif. The service was performed by Chaplain (Maj.) George D. Lessley, father of the bride.

The couple first met in 1948, when Chaplain Lessley, accompanied by his daughter, was stationed in Bremen, where Mr. Kleinfeldt was employed by the U. S. Army as an investigator. In June 1950, they announced their engagement.

Although the Lessleys returned to the United States shortly after the announcement of the engagement, it was not until two months ago that Mr. Kleinfeldt was able to enter the country, due to small quotas of people allowed from Germany.

Best man for the wedding was the bride's brother, David Lessley, a senior at Paso Robles High School. Maid of Honor was Miss Helen Buck, of Fullerton. The bride was given in marriage by Maj. Aage Larson of the U. S. Army Hospital at Camp Roberts.

The Cadet Chapel at West Point, N. Y., was the scene on 6 June of the marriage of Miss Ann Childress Ford, daughter of Mrs. George A. Ford of Silver Spring, Md., and the late Colonel Ford, USA, and 2d Lt. James Richard Kintz, USA, son of Col. and Mrs. Francis P. Kintz of Ft. Clayton, C. Z.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Baron Kurt von Seydlitz, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and pointed sleeves, with a skirt fitted to the hips before flaring into a full train. Her fingertip veil fell from a Juliet cap embroidered with seed pearls, and she wore a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Charles R. Cummings, sister of the bride, of East Orange, N. J., was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Anneliese Falk, Jacqueline Scott and Catherine Sullivan. Serving as best man for his brother was Lt. William Kintz. The ushers were Lts. Lew S. Robinson, Donald J. Norton, Murton Guild, John W. Buckstead and Richard P. McLean, all classmates of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Kintz is a graduate of Southern Seminary at Buena Vista, Va., and attended George Washington University and the Washington School for Secretaries. Lieutenant Kintz graduated from the U. S. Military Academy on 5 June, and has been assigned to duty at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Miss Jean Naramore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Franklin Naramore of Summit, N. J., was married to 2d Lt. Richard Arney Perry, USA, son of Col. and Mrs. William Oliver Perry of Denver, Col., at the Cadet Chapel, West Point, N. Y., 5 June. A reception followed the ceremony at the Fortnightly Club House at Summit.

The bride wore a gown of ivory slipper satin designed on princess lines with the bodice and sleeves of shirred rosepoint lace, its soft pleats at the waist falling into a long, circular train. Her four-tier veil of silk illusion was draped from a halo of rosepoint and duchess lace and she carried a bridal prayerbook with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Elizabeth Swartz of Summit was maid of honor and Mrs. Donald Grush of San Francisco, Calif., was matron of honor. Miss Jean Hull of Madison, N. J., was the bride's only other attendant. 2d Lt. Robert Isaac of Colorado Springs, Col., was best man for Lieutenant Perry, and the ushers were Lts. George Harmon, George Ritter, Norton Parks and Charles MacIntosh.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority. Lieutenant Perry graduated with this year's class at the U. S. Military Academy after spending two years in the Army in World War II. He has been assigned to the Infantry with his first station at Ft. Benning, Ga., where he and Mrs. Perry will reside, after a wedding trip to Colorado.

In a single ring ceremony beautiful in its simplicity Miss Llewellyn F. Henley of Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., became the bride of Capt. John E. Stannard of Ft. Campbell, Ky., on 26 May at Ft. Campbell. Chaplain (Capt.) Thomas Carey officiated at the wedding and solemnized the nuptial Mass.

The bride was lovely in a heaven blue chantilly lace ballerina gown fashioned with a net inset at the yoke and a matching portrait hat of original design. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds centered with an orchid.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Peter Kelley of Ft. Campbell. Capt. Harold Van Hout, just returned to Ft. Campbell from duty with the 187th Regimental Combat Team in Korea, performed the duties of best man for Captain Stannard.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Fowler of Memphis and Captain Stannard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stannard of Williston, N. D. A graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, Captain Stannard is presently assigned to the G-3 Section of the 11th Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell.

An impressive military ceremony marked the marriage of Miss Mary Agnew Howland, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William Agnew Howland, USA-Ret., and Capt. Albert Marshall Leavitt, which was solemnized 2 June in the Main Post Chapel at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Captain Leavitt is the son of Arthur H. Leavitt and the late Mrs. Leavitt of Cape Elizabeth, Me.

Chaplain (Capt.) Richard Malloy read the marriage lines.

Capt. John Whitmore was best man, and the groomsmen were Maj. James Shanahan, Capt. George Daoust, Capt. Robert Shoemaker, Capt. Allan Wood, Capt. John Neff and Lt. William Dunn.

Miss Helen Moore was the bride's maid of honor, and Mrs. James Shanahan was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Sally Davis, Mrs. Fenton Odell, Miss Barbara Millener and Miss Benning Burdard.

Colonel Howland gave his daughter in marriage. Her beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown of chantilly lace over satin and illusion, fashioned with a high neckline of illusion, long sleeves outlined with ruffles and a bouffant skirt lengthening to form a train. Her double-tiered fingertip veil of imported French illusion was caught to a crown of seed pearls, worn by her sister-in-law, Mrs. John S. Howland of Ft. Knox, Ky., when she was a bride.

Colonel and Mrs. Howland entertained with a reception at the Ft. Benning Country Club immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with an Army-Navy cloth and was appointed with silver candelabra. The three-tiered wedding cake was embossed with roses and topped with a lace fan. A ruffle of maline surrounded the base. The bride cut the first slice with her husband's sabre.

Mrs. Robert Daly kept the bride's book, and assisting in serving were Mrs. William S. Howland of New York, N. Y., and Mrs. George Daoust.

The bride and groom left during the evening for a wedding trip to Maine and Canada. On their return Captain and Mrs. Leavitt will reside at 87-D Camellia Apartments.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Louise Leavitt and Miss Sara Jane Leavitt of Cape Elizabeth, Me.; Mrs. Thomas Carmody of Portland, Me.; Dr. and Mrs. William S. Howland of New York, N. Y., and O/C William A. Howland of Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex.

Col. and Mrs. H. B. Margeson, USA, now stationed at Governors Island, N. Y., announce the engagement of Mrs. Margeson's daughter, Elizabeth Anne Brady, to Mr. James E. Cavanagh, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Cavanagh of Northampton, Mass.

Miss Brady is the daughter of the late Col. J. E. Brady, Jr., USA. She was graduated from Frankfurt High School, Frankfurt am/Main, Germany, attended Finch Junior College, New York City, and is now at Bennington College.

Mr. Cavanagh attended the Horace Mann School in New York, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., and is now in Dartmouth Medical School.

The wedding will take place the end of August on Governors Island, N. Y.

Miss Jean Ennis Farber, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dawson L. Farber of Sparrows Point, Md., was married 2 June to Capt. David Seffers Lane, USA, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Donald Lane of Kingston, N. Y.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. (Maj.) M. Nicholas Menicon, Army Chaplain Corps, at St. Matthews Episcopal Church, Baltimore, Md.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of chantilly lace and tulle, with a tulle veil which fell from a cap of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and white delphinium.

Miss Sigrid Christine Johnson was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Ennis Farber, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Katherine Bartholomew, all of Sparrows Point, Md., and Miss Alice Carolyn Johnston of Wilmington, Del.

Mr. Mark E. Connelly, Kingston, N. Y., was the best man. The ushers included Capt. E. Keith Ball, West Point, N. Y.; Capt. Arthur W. Jank and Capt. John W. Wiss, both of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.; Mr. C. Robert Palm of Matawan, N. J., and Mr. Dawson L. Farber, Jr., and Dr. Robert Ennis Farber of Baltimore, brothers of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda the couple will reside at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Mrs. Lane was graduated from Hannah More Academy, Chevy Chase Junior College, and Goucher College.

Captain Lane attended Princeton University, was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1946, and received an M.S. degree in electronics from the University of Pennsylvania in 1950.

Mrs. Allyn Gillyn Donahoe of Sarasota, Fla., announces the engagement of her daughter, Nona Florence, to Capt. John A. Stewart, Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. J. A. Stewart, Retd. of Siesta Key, Fla. The wedding will take place in July at Sarasota.

Miss Donahoe is a graduate of the Katherine Gibbs School of Boston and is now attending the Ammagansett School of Art in Sarasota.

Captain Stewart graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1943 and saw service with the Third Army in France. His present assignment is with the 82d Air Borne Division, Ft. Bragg, N. C.

POSTS AND STATIONS

■ SAN FRANCISCO POE. At a recent meeting of the San Francisco Port of Embarkation Ladies' Auxiliary, Col. Loyd D. Bunting gave an informal talk on the occupation of Germany after World War I as compared with the occupation after World War II. Colonel Bunting served three years with the Army of Occupation in Germany after the first world war and again from 1945 to 1949 after World War II. Colonel Bunting organized and ran the loading and unloading of planes at Tempelhof Air Force Base and the distribution of the material during the Berlin Airlift.

After a career of nearly 34 years in the Army, Colonel Bunting retired on 31 May. A corsage of red roses and a going-away present were presented to Mrs. Bunting by Mrs. A. A. Watson, Chairman of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Mrs. R. L. Allen won the door prize.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. L. F. Clark, Mrs. P. T. L. Black, Mrs. L. C. Ward, and Mrs. M. L. Lindsey.

■ NEWARK, N. J. Maj. Gen. James P. Hodges, USAF, Commanding General, First Air Force, Mitchel AFB, N. Y., addressed the first Air Force ROTC class to be commissioned at the Newark College of Engineering, Newark, N. J. Twenty-three engineering graduates received commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve. Fernand F. Martin, cadet colonel, was the only one to be tendered a commission in the Regular Air Force.

Lt. Col. David B. Tudor is Professor of Air Science and Tactics at the institution. Maj. Frank A. Tenney, Jr. and Capt. Abraham R. Baum are assistant professors of Air Science and Tactics.

■ BENICIA ARSENAL, CALIF. Col. and Mrs. R. S. Chavin entertained 40 members of the "Soda" club at an all-day picnic barbecue at the quarters of the commanding officer 27 May. Members of the club are all former Army officers who served under Colonel Chavin when he was commanding general at Stockton Ordnance Depot from 1943 to 1946. President of the club is Henry Marsh (Lt. Col., Res.), of Oakland.

Officers' Wives recently held morning coffee farewell parties for three of their group and are planning three more. Guests of honor were the wives of Lt. Frank Greengrass, who has been transferred to Bremerhaven, Germany; Capt. Paul H. Mains, now on duty at Black Hills Ordnance Depot, Igloo, S. D.; and Lt. William G. Raus, who has been ordered to FEC. Farewell parties are planned for the wives of Maj. Charles F. Atwell, who is going to Fort Leavenworth, Kans.; Capt. Robert Leavitt, ordered to FEC; and Maj. R. A. Atlas, who will be transferred to Aberdeen Proving Ground in August.

■ MARCH AFB, CALIF. The Officers' Wives' Club presented a Fashion Show on 22 May for 275 members and guests. The 10 attractive club members who modeled were Mesdames John B. Henry, Jr., L. A. Curtis, Robert Stafford, J. D. White, Howell M. Estes, Jr., Don C. Foster, Edward L. Daniels, Raymond J. VanWagner, William E. Beatty and S. R. McFall. Styles were from Reynold's of Riverside, who also presented guests with baby orchids as favors. The show was climaxed by a surprise ending when Mrs. G. F. Goyt, program chairman, and Mrs. W. R. Close modeled bathing suits, circa 1920.

Shelly Mitchell Kaufman, wife of Capt. Norman Kaufman, and commentator for the style show, was also attending her first meeting as a new club member. Mrs. Kaufman recently appeared in "Kiss Me Kate."

Honor guests at the luncheon preceding the show were Mrs. James E. Briggs, whose husband, Brigadier General Briggs, has just arrived here for duty as deputy commander, 15th Air Force; Mrs. Joseph H. Davidson and Mrs. Leonard D. Weddington, whose husbands are retired brigadier generals.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Emmett O'Donnell, wife of Major General O'Donnell, Mrs. Glenn Campbell, Club president, Mrs. L. D. Briggs, senior hostess of the day, and Mrs. R. R. Dunlap.

■ WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, OHIO. The colorful Spring Festival, sponsored by the Women's Club, brought an approximate $2,000 into the Club's coffers for use in its charities. The Festival featured booths selling handmade articles, toys, art work, baby clothing, costume jewelry, baked goods and foods, books and many other articles.

Mrs. William P. Harris, serving as the festival's general chairman, was assisted by booth chairmen Mrs. W. A. Harmon, Mrs. G. W. Mundy, Mrs. W. M. Miles, Mrs. B. W. Felling, Mrs. S. C. Lombard, Mrs. E. J. O'Donnell, Mrs. L. M. Bivins, Mrs. L. P. Scollay, Mrs. D. J. Keirn, Mrs. A. M. Musgrove, Mrs. S. R. Brentnall and Mrs. J. H. Rothrock.

■ MCAS, CHERRY POINT, N. C. Marine Helicopter Squadron 261, the first of three helicopter squadrons on the East coast, has received its first plane, a Sikorsky HRS-1 "copter. The plane was flown from the Sikorsky plant in Bridgeport, Conn., to the Marine Corps Air Station, Quantico, Va., for further transportation to the Air Station at Cherry Point.

Lt. Col. O. A. Chambers commands the squadron, while Maj. M. S. Ober, Jr., serves as executive officer.

■ WESTOVER AFB, MASS. The Officers' Wives' Club held a bridge and canasta party recently. Punch was served by the hostesses Mrs. M. A. Libby, Mrs. P. A. Zartman, Mrs. T. P. Carroll and Mrs. S. L. Dietz. Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. William Tarr, Mrs. G. E. Sisco, Jr., and Mrs. Ben James. Canasta winners were Mrs. J. M. King and Mrs. J. C. Matson.

■ HEIDELBERG, GERMANY. Maj. Robert B. Cruise, former personnel chief of the 7738 EES Group in Nurnberg, has been assigned as Executive Officer of Karlsruhe Military Sub-Post. He succeeds Col. Willard F. Smith, transferred to the 7966 EUCOM Det. in France.

■ DENVER, COLO. The first meeting of the Officers' Wives' Club of the newly formed Air Force Finance Center was held recently at the Park Lane Hotel. Arrangements for the luncheon were made by Mrs. Ernest A. Hough and Mrs. Angus S. Clist.

Mrs. John R. Gilchrist, wife of Colonel Gilchrist, Commanding Officer of the Air Force Finance Center, extended a welcome to the wives present.

Plans were made to hold a social meeting on the third Thursday of each month and for the next meeting arrangements will be made by Mrs. Gilchrist and Mrs. Frederick L. Smith.

■ FT. BLISS, TEX. Col. Christian Alfred Friis, Inspector of the Cavalry of the Danish Army, arrived 31 May for a two-day visit. While here he observed mass training methods and the operation of the Antiaircraft and Guided Missiles Branch of The Artillery School. The Danish group made a trip to the Antiaircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center, visited various departments and activities of the AA and GM Branch, and toured the Replica of Old Fort Bliss.

Colonel Friis was accompanied by Lt. Col. Aage Hojland Christensen, Maj. Jens P. A. Jorgensen, Maj. Laurits Mathias Kristensen Skern, and Maj. Vilhelm Jensenius Ubbe.

■ CRAIG AFB, ALA. Maj. Charles Bowen, former Director of Military Personnel, has been transferred to a similar assignment with the Air Force Flying Training Command at Waco, Texas. Replacing Major Bowen at Craig is Maj. D. A. McMasters, previously Manpower and Management Officer.

■ TERRE HAUTE ORDNANCE DEPOT, IND. The May party of the Military Personnel and their wives was held last week. Among the guests in attendance were Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. H. Peters, Maj. W. D. Morrison, Capt. and Mrs. H. D. Sellar, and Capt. and Mrs. G. Polikucha from Wabash River Ordnance, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Glen Kraus from Rockville, Lt. Col. and Mrs. H. C. Brooke of Terre Haute, and Comdr. Ray Asbury of Terre Haute.

The committee for the party consisting of Maj. and Mrs. A. E. Nelson, Capt. and Mrs. W. E. Winterstein and W/O and Mrs. C. A. Lowrey provided an outstanding array of hors d'oeuvres and canapes.

■ FT. KNOX, KY. Mrs. L. C. Berry has been elected president of the Women's Club. Election of officers for the 1951-52 season took place at the final meeting of the club year. Named as vice presidents were Mrs. L. C. Daniel and Mrs. D. W. Thackeray. Mrs. David G. Barr was elected honorary president and Mrs. Ira P. Swift honorary vice president. Chosen as secretary was Mrs. W. P. Ring, and Mrs. A. H. Black was picked as treasurer. Mrs. E. W. Fickett, outgoing president, presented new officers to members. She then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Berry, the new president. Mrs. John C. Macdonald, outgoing vice president, presented Mrs. Fickett with a gift from the club membership.

■ CAMP PICKETT, VA. The 43d Infantry Division was called "excellent" in its training last week after a thorough going over by experienced Army officers. The rating was the first "excellent" to be handed to a division in the Second Army area, inspectors said. More than 60 officers spent a week combing records, watching training, questioning personnel on every phase of training.

In grades, the mark was 78.19 for the division's training. It was 74.36 for administration. Both marks fall in the "excellent" category. The team disclosed its findings at a critique attended by staff and command officers.

The training inspection team headed by Col. Joseph H. O'Malley of Second Army made 210 separate checks. Sixty-seven units were rated as superior and 87 as excellent, while 46 were called satisfactory. Only 10 inspections turned up unsatisfactory reports.

■ KADENA AFB, OKINAWA. The Officers' Wives Club is sponsoring free golf lessons at the Awase Meadows Country Club for its members. Mr. Fred Wetmore, professional at the Club, is cooperating by donating his time and skill. Those in the present class are: Mrs. R. J. Sunde, Mrs. Mac Martin, Mrs. Donald Kendrick, Mrs. William G. Snaith, Mrs. John E. Condon, Mrs. A. F. Burge, Mrs. J. C. Grant and Mrs. F. W. Lay.

■ HQ, 19th BOMB WING (M), GUAM, M. I. Brig. Gen. A. H. Gilkeson, USAF, Commanding General of the 19th Bombardment Wing, has been assigned as Commanding General of the Ogden Air Materiel Area, Hill AFB, Utah. General and Mrs. Gilkeson and their son, Thomas, left 27 May for the United States aboard a military transport.

General Gilkeson arrived on the island of Guam in November 1949 and took command of the 19th Bombardment Wing. He has been instrumental in re-building Andersen AFB after the disastrous typhoon "Allyn." His personal interest in recreational facilities and the off-duty recreational program for Andersen personnel has helped to maintain the high morale of this base despite the demands of the Korean war effort for materials and manpower.

■ WIESBADEN, GERMANY. Maj. Gen. Dean C. Strother, USAF, commanding general of the Twelfth Air Force, and Brig. Gen. Fay R. Upthegrove, USAF, commanding general of the Wiesbaden Military Post, attended Memorial Day ceremonies at the Anzio-Nettuno Military Cemetery, Italy. They represented the Fifteenth Air Force Society at the ceremony and placed a floral wreath in memory of their former comrades who lost their lives in the Italian action in 1944.

General Strother, later to be named head of the Fifteenth Air Force Fighter Command, was commanding general of the 306th Fighter Wing at the time of the Anzio beach-head battle. General Upthegrove, who participated in 58 bomber missions and flew more than 340 hours in B-17 bombers overseas, was commanding general of the 304th Bombardment Wing of the Fifteenth Air Force at the time of the Anzio action.

■ FORT CAMPBELL, KY. The 89th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, which was activated at Fort Campbell on 2 March, was presented recently with its colors at a Division Artillery Review. The presentation was made by Maj. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, USA, commanding general of the 11th Airborne Division. The colors were received by Lt. Col. Duff W. Sudduth, who has commanded the battalion since its reactivation here. Colonel Sudduth is one of the original members of the 11th Airborne Division. He was with the division when it was first activated, 25 Feb. 1943, and has served with it five of its eight years.

■ SELFRIDGE AFB, MICH. A military career that began concurrently with the establishment of the Air Service of the Army Signal Corps, the forerunner of the present Air Force, was consummated here last week by the retirement of M/Sgt. Chester L. Hamsher, after 31 years of distinguished service.

Sergeant major for the 56th Fighter-Interceptor Wing for the past five years, Sergeant Hamsher was officially retired at a formal review of the base, at which Base Commander, Col. James R. Gunn, Jr., congratulated him for his many years of honorable service.

■ ANNAPOLIS, MD. The Electronics and Physics Department of the Postgraduate School entertained last week in honor of Capt. W. C. Schultz, Officer-in-Charge of the Department, and Mrs. Schultz, who will soon leave Annapolis for San Diego, Calif. William C. Schultz, Jr., son of Captain and Mrs. Schultz, will enter the plebe class of the Naval Academy this summer.

Lt. James A. Stuart, USA, who recently returned from Korea, and Mrs. Stuart, and their young son, are visiting Lieutenant Stuart's parents, General James A. Stuart, USMC, and Mrs. Stuart at "Anniversary Hill," their home near Annapolis.

Lt. Peter Crawford of Quonset, R. I., has been spending a week with his parents, Comdr. and Mrs. A. D. A. Crawford of Hanover St.

Mrs. Walter Crosley of Washington, widow of Rear Admiral Crosley, is the house guest of Mrs. Walton H. Hopkins of Maryland Ave.

Mrs. E. C. Atkinson, who has been staying with her parents for the past few months, Capt. and Mrs. Spencer E. Dickinson of Wardour, left last week to join her husband, Lt. E. C. Atkinson, at Coco Solo, Panama.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert Swart have returned to the Norfolk Naval Shipyard after spending June Week here. Their son, Ens. Robert Swart, Jr., was one of this year's graduates at the Naval Academy.

Capt. Robert D. Cunningham, MC, USA, who recently returned from Korea and is now stationed at Ft. Bragg, N. C., joined his parents here for June Week. They are Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Cunningham of Merion, Ind., who attended the graduation of their son, Ens. Richard B. Cunningham, at the Naval Academy. Another son, Mr. C. W. Cunningham, who is with the Atomic project at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and his wife, were also here for June Week.

■ BRUNSWICK, ME. At a recent meeting of the Officers' Wives Club of the 654th AC & W Sq., the Book Club was organized under the chairmanship of Mrs. O. I. Hayes. Plans for a social meeting were made for the forthcoming meeting. A farewell gift was presented to Mrs. John Hall Stokes, wife of Colonel Stokes, Commanding Officer of the Squadron, on the eve of their departure from the Base.

■ FORT MEADE, MD. After a routine ceremony of greeting, Lt. Gen. Edward H. Brooks, USA, assumed command of the Second Army at this headquarters post on 4 June.

The new commander of the seven-state area replaces Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, USA, who recently was designated as commander of the Eighth Army in Korea. Pending the appointment of a new Second Army Commander, Maj. Gen. Cliff Andrus, USA, who served as Deputy under General Van Fleet, commanded the Second Army. He now reverts to his post as Deputy Commander.

■ NEW YORK POE. The appointment of Col. I. W. Littell as Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations is announced by Brig. Gen. Edward H. Lastayo, USA, port commander. Colonel Littell's last assignment was with the U. S. Military Mission in Turkey, where he was in charge of all Mutual Defense Assistance Program materiel shipped to that country. For three years he was an instructor of Logistics at the Turkish War College in Istanbul, and has the distinction of being the first American Army officer to serve on the Board of Managers of the Admiral Bristol Hospital in Istanbul. This hospital was established during the first World War by Admiral Bristol, then High Commissioner of Turkey, and is one of the show places of Turkey.

U. S. Medical Delegation

Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, Air Force Surgeon General, has been designated Chairman of the U. S. Delegation to the Thirteenth International Congress on Military Medicine and Pharmacy, which is to be held at Paris, France, 17-23 June. Other military members of the delegation include:

Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, (MC), USA, Surgeon General.

Capt. Albert R. Behnke, Jr., (MC), USN, Staff Medical Officer, Commander Naval Forces, Germany.

Brig. Gen. Otis O. Benson, Jr., (MC), USAF, Commandant Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph AFB, Tex.

Vice Adm. Joel T. Boone, (MC), USN-Ret., Chief Medical Director, Department of Medicine and Surgery, Veterans Administration.

Maj. Gen. Edgar E. Hume, (MC), USA, Chief Surgeon, Far East Command, General Headquarters, FECOM, Tokyo, Japan.

Capt. Hilton W. Rose, (MC), USN, Executive Secretary, Armed Forces Medical Policy Council, Office of the Secretary of Defense, Department of Defense.

The principal agenda items for the forthcoming Congress relate to new military and social problems encountered by the military services. Attention will be given in particular to such matters as the pathology and treatment of lesions resulting from the use of atomic weapons, war psychosis, and the care and evacuation of the sick and wounded.

Raise EUCOM Allowance

Enlisted members of the Army, Navy, and Air Force in Germany, whose dependents reside in the vicinity of their duty stations, now are entitled to receive the station per diem subsistence allowance of $2.25 per day in lieu of the separate ration allowance of $1.05 per day previously authorized.

Where enlisted personnel were paid the lesser amount of $1.05 per day since 1 April, local finance officers have been authorized to make retroactive adjustments.

Court of Claims Rulings

In decisions handed down this week by the United States Court of Claims, rulings were made in favor of a former Army major and a retired Navy enlisted man. In a third case, a suit brought by a retired Army colonel was dismissed.

The retired Navy man, Shail Frederick White, a Chief Water Tender in the Fleet Reserve, brought suit against the United States to recover the difference between retainer pay computed at the rate of two and one-half per cent of his base and longevity pay at the time of transfer to the Fleet Reserve, multiplied by the number of years of active service he had completed at the time of his transfer, and retainer pay computed on the basis of one-half of his base pay, on which basis he had been paid since his retirement. The Court ruled that an initial minority enlistment should be counted as a full four years against retirement and that White is entitled to recover the difference in pay between the amount he has been paid and the higher amount to which he is entitled.

The Court also ruled that a former Army major, Francis V. Terry, retired in 1946 in the rank of first lieutenant, is entitled to recover terminal leave pay which was charged off to him while he was hospitalized. Terry had been ordered upon terminal leave while confined to the hospital. The Court ruled that, "Properly approved absence because of sickness cannot be charged against accrued leave," and said that Terry is entitled to judgment for the monetary value of the leave due him at the time he was hospitalized, "computed at the rate of pay and allowances to which (he) was then entitled as a major."

In the third decision, the Court ruled that retired Army Colonel Allen Kimberly is not entitled to the retired pay of a brigadier general. Colonel Kimberly had served as Chief of the American Military Mission to Brazil in 1938 with the rank and grade of brigadier general, and claimed that he was entitled to the retired pay of the higher grade. The Court ruled that the nature of the assignment, "which specifically stipulated that members of the Mission should receive no extra compensation for this extra grade or rank," prevented Colonel Kimberly from collecting higher retired pay.

Obituaries

Col. Joseph D. Arthur, Jr., USA-Ret.

Col. Joseph Logan Arthur, Jr., USA-Ret., died 31 May at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., after a long illness.

He was born 26 Oct. 1891, in Union, S. C., and attended schools in South Carolina, leaving the Citadel at Charleston when he received his appointment to the U. S. Military Academy.

He graduated from West Point in 1915, and was assigned to the Corps of Engineers. His service of 31 years in the Corps of Engineers prior to his retirement in 1946, included many important assignments. He was overseas in World War I. During the period between wars he served as District Engineer, Zanesville, Ohio, where he was in charge of the Muskingum Flood Control Project, one of the earliest and most important flood control projects constructed by the Corps of Engineers. He was District Engineer in Washington, D. C., from 1930 to 1934, after graduating from the Command and General Staff School in 1930. During the early part of the recent World War he was in charge of overseas construction in the Caribbean. He returned to Washington in 1942 as Assistant Engineer Commissioner for the District of Columbia where he served until his retirement in 1946. After a year as Harbor Engineer for the City of Baltimore he moved to Hillsboro, N. C., which remained his home until coming to Walter Reed.

Colonel Arthur received his B.S. degree from West Point and bachelor and master degrees in civil engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Colonel Arthur is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah Michaux Arthur; his mother, Mrs. Alice Moore Arthur of Union, S. C., a daughter, Mrs. Robert Cathcart Smith of Conway, S. C.; three sons, Joseph Logan Arthur III of Long Island, N. Y., Robert M. Arthur, a student at Duke Medical School, Macon M. Arthur of Washington, D. C.; a sister, Mrs. Hubert Wilson of Camden, S. C.; and four brothers, H. M. Arthur, A. A. Arthur, Brig. Gen. J. M. Arthur, USMC-Ret., and E. J. Arthur, all of Union, S. C.

Interment was at Arlington National Cemetery.

Capt. Guy L. Hartman, USA-Ret.

Funeral services for Capt. Guy L. Hartman, 68, USA-Ret., were held 6 June in the Ft. Myer Chapel followed by burial with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

Captain Hartman died 2 June at his home in Lakeland, Fla. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Hartman, 707 McDonald Street, Lakeland. Mrs. Hartman is a niece of former Senator Fletcher of Florida.

Born in North Carolina, 25 June 1883, Captain Hartman was a graduate of the Infantry School Officer Course (1923) and the Advanced Course (1932). He was commissioned First Lieutenant, Infantry in 1917 and promoted to Captain in November 1918. He was appointed Captain, Infantry in the Regular Army 16 Sept. 1920.

Captain Hartman was retired for disability in line of duty, 30 Nov. 1934. His decorations include the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, and Purple Heart. Residents of the District for many years, the Hartmans made their home in Florida following the Captain's retirement.

The United States Army Band and troops from the 3d "Old Guard" Infantry Regiment of Fort Myer participated in the full honor services.

1st Lt. Robert P. Eckert, USAF

The many friends throughout the Services of Col. and Mrs. John P. Eckert, USA, of Ft. Monroe, Va., will be saddened to learn of the death of their son, 1st Lt. Robert P. Eckert, USAF, on 5 June near Wright-Patterson AFB, Dayton, Ohio, while piloting one of two propeller-driven planes, which collided with an F-86 jet plane.

Lieutenant Eckert, who was born in San Francisco, 22 July 1923, attended Millard's Preparatory School in Washington before entering the U. S. Military Academy, from which he was graduated prior to his assignment in the Air Force.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jan Eckert, and a two-year-old daughter, Jan. Lieutenant Eckert's only brother, Lt. John K. Eckert, was killed under similarly tragic circumstances in the crash of two bombers over England during World War II.

Graduation exercises were held 1 June for the 392 student officers of the 1950-1951 Regular Course at the Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.

The course, which began 6 Sept. 1950, was attended by 339 officers of the Army, seven officers of the Marine Corps, seven from the Air Force, and one from the Navy, as well as 38 officers from Allied nations.

Assistant Secretary of the Army Earl D. Johnson was the principal speaker at the graduation exercises, and the Commandant of the CGSC, Maj. Gen. Horace L. McBride, USA, gave the introductory remarks. The students received their diplomas from Col. Max S. Johnson, Assistant Commandant.

The graduation exercises culminated nine months of study at the Army's second highest educational institution, which prepares officers for duty on general staffs and as commanders of division, corps, army, and comparable levels in the communications zone.

The CGSC also provides instruction in the light of modern developments and war lessons to ensure effective development and employment of all field forces within the framework of the field army and communications zone, and effective administrative, intelligence, and logistical support of the fighting forces.

Five of the U.S. students attending the course were full colonels, 285 were lieutenant colonels, and 64 were majors. The Infantry had the greatest number of students—126. Seventy-seven students were Artillery officers, 31 Armor, 25 Corps of Engineers, 16 Quartermaster Corps, 16 Ordnance Corps, 13 Transportation Corps, 10 Signal Corps, and the other 25 officers were MPC, AGC, MC, MSC, JAGC, Chemical Corps, FC, and Chaplains Corps.

The students had an average of 10 years' commissioned service, with 35 months' overseas service. The average age of the class was 36½ years, and 58 of the officers were West Point graduates.

Since the close of World War II, five regular courses have been held at the CGSC, with a total of 1,863 officers of the U.S. Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force completing the courses. The 1951-52 class is expected to have 600 students.

The following is a list of the U.S. members of the 1950-1951 class. The five colonels are indicated by an asterisk (*) while the majors are indicated by two asterisks (**):

Commands 6th Cav. Regt.

Col. Rothwell H. Brown, former commandant of the Seventh Army Tank Training Center, Vilseck, Germany, has assumed duties as commanding officer of the 6th Armored Cavalry Regiment at Straubing, Germany, succeeding Col. George A. Rehm, who has been named Deputy Chief of Staff for Administration, Seventh Army Headquarters.

Colonel Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rothwell Brown, 1335—30th St., N.W., Wash., D. C. His father, Mr. George R. Brown, is presently engaged as a newspaper columnist with "King Features," Inc., N. Y., N. Y.

In 1942 Colonel Brown was military adviser in India and as director of the tank school there, he spent 40 months teaching armor to Chinese soldiers—later he led his Chinese troops into combat against the Japanese. In addition to several service ribbons, Colonel Brown has the Air Medal, four battle stars and the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

While in Peiping Hqs Group, China, during June 1946 to January 1947, he was awarded the Army Commendation ribbon for meritorious service, the Army, Navy, Air Force Medal, Class 1, Grade A, by the Ministry of National Defense, National Government of the Republic of China, and the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster. The awards were made for his outstanding efforts in mediations between the Chinese Nationalists and the Chinese Communists.

In 1947, Colonel Brown was transferred to Korea where he commanded the 20th Infantry Regiment, 6th Infantry Division. Returning to the States in 1948, he served on the Chief Policy Planning Branch of the Adjutant General's Office, Wash., D. C. He arrived in the European Command in 1949, his initial assignment as executive officer, 2nd Constabulary Brigade.

His present command at Straubing, a medium bomber and Jet fighter training base for the Luftwaffe during the war, is located a short 35 miles from the Iron Curtain country of Czechoslovakia. The "sector" in this area has been aptly described by former Constabulary general, Brig. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, as "the eastern-most outpost of democracy" in the European Command.

Midshipmen Class Officers

Midshipmen James A. Sagerholm, Henry R. Perot, and Robert E. Gibson have been elected to serve as Presidents of the Classes 1952, '53 and '54, respectively, at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., for the academic year 1951-52.

The Class Vice Presidents will be John F. Pearson, jr., '52; Carlisle A. H. Trost, '53, and Clyde D. Dean, '54.

The secretary posts go to Midshipmen Thomas R. Cotten, jr., '52; Gerald E. Weinstein, '53, and Peter J. Vogelberger, jr., '54.

Elected as Class treasurers are: Midshipmen Peter A. Stark, jr., '52; Richard T. Herkner, '53, and Gaylord B. Ballard, '54.

New Power for Submarines

A new development in submarine power, which will enable the Navy to alleviate some of the cramped space on its undersea ships and at the same time permit greater equipment loads aboard the subs, was outlined this week.

"The newest attack submarines," the Navy said, "will be powered by a compact, radial-type diesel engine which is now ready after five years of development work."

A 16 cylinder, 2-cycle type engine, the new diesel is the lightest such engine in its power range. The Navy said "it is about half the weight" of engines now being installed in submarines. Diesel engines installed in the undersea craft during World War II "were half again as large," the Navy said.

A Navy spokesman indicated that the space-saving feature of the new engine was of paramount importance. He indicated that the weight differential might make it possible for submarines to carry larger torpedo loads.

Small Business Advisor

Appointment of Richard Lennihan, a small businessman of Vineyard Haven, Mass., as special advisor on small business for the Department of Defense, was announced this week.

Mr. Lennihan also will serve as Director of the Office of Small Business under Chairman J. D. Small of the Department of Defense Munitions Board.

In his new post, Mr. Lennihan will direct the small business policies of the Department of Defense. He also will be the Munitions Board liaison on small business for the National Production Authority and other government agencies.

ments of our expanding forces.

In addition to Mr. Lovett, other officials who testified this week included Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) W. J. McNeil, Chairman John D. Small of the Munitions Board, Secretary Pace, Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews, and Under Secretary of the Air Force John McCone.

New York Dist. Eng.

Assignment of Col. Alfred H. Davidson as New York District Engineer was announced this week by Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Army Engineers.

Colonel Davidson succeeds Col. E. P. Ketchum, who will retire from active duty. He will assume his new duties by 23 July. He has just completed the 1950-51 term at the Army War College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.

USMC Band to New Castle

By Presidential order, the Marine Band is to provide music at the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the settling of New Castle, Del., to be held on 16 June. This unusual action by the President made unnecessary any action by Congress on a bill reported to the House by the House Committee on Armed Services for this purpose.

Show Communications Gear

The Government Service Division of the RCA Service Company, Camden, N. J., invited top Armed Forces communications leaders to attend a showing of RCA communications equipment on 8 June at the Hotel Statler in Washington, D. C.

Special emphasis was placed on microwave relay developments and applications of such equipment in military communications, according to P. B. Reed, Vice President in Charge of the Division.

Other developments featured included RCA's Time Interval Counter, which provides instantaneous and accurate charting of the speed of moving objects, and color television. The latter display included a giant diagram showing the principles of RCA color television transmission and reception, and a cut-away RCA color television picture tube.

A fourth display emphasized the various military services offered by the RCA Service Company. The company secures, trains, and makes available to the Armed Forces qualified field engineers for the training of military personnel in the installation and servicing of all types and makes of electronic equipment. The company now has nearly three times as many technicians in the field on Government service as it had during the peak of its World War II activity.

Name District Engineers

Assignment of two new District Engineers is announced by Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Army Chief of Engineers.

Col. George Kumpke succeeds Col. David A. Morris as Milwaukee District Engineer and Lt. Col. Fred Ressegieu succeeds Maj. Edward Campbell as St. Louis District Engineer. Major Campbell had been Acting District Engineer since last January when Col. Beverly C. Snow left the post to become Upper Mississippi Valley Division Engineer.

Colonel Ressegieu will assume his new duties on 18 July. Colonel Kumpke will assume his new post by 1 July.

Colonel Ressegieu, now a student at the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., has been in the Corps of Engineers since graduating from West Point in 1937. He served in the European Theater during World War II, and prior to his transfer to Norfolk in February, spent two years with the Military Attache in Ottawa, Canada, as an interchange officer with the Canadian Army.

Colonel Kumpke, assigned to the Munitions Board, Washington, D. C., since 1948, has been with the Corps of Engineers since graduating from West Point in 1932. His tours of duty include civil works assignment in the United States, staff instructor to the Philippine Army, and command of Engineer Aviation troops in World War II.

Gen. Clay Elected

General Lucius D. Clay, USA-Ret., has been elected as a member of the board of directors of the General Motors Corporation.

He is also chairman of the board of Continental Can Company.

Contracts for Barges

Contracts for the construction of 102 barges by eight "small business" firms have been let by the Navy.

The barges, to be built for the Army Transportation Corps at a cost of more than $2,000,000, were contracted for under small "package" orders designed to be within the manufacturing capabilities of small concerns.

In announcing the "package" orders, Vice Adm. A. G. Noble, Chief of Naval Materiel, pointed out the effort being made by the Navy to place contracts with small business firms.

The "package" contracts were divided among the following companies:

Kargard Boat & Engine Co., Marinette, Wis.
Jafra, Inc., Miami, Fla.
Augusta Iron & Steel Works, Inc., Augusta, Ga.
Gary Steel Products Corp., Richmond, Va.
Bushnell Steel Company, Jacksonville, Fla.
Central Steel Construction Corp., Buffalo, N. Y.
Bushnell-Lyons Iron Works, Tampa, Fla.
Northeastern Boiler Works, Green Bay, Wis.

Graduate Caltech

Seventeen members of the Armed Forces assigned to the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, were among the more than 350 candidates for degrees awarded 8 June.

Eleven are graduates of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point or the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Their ranks range from Lieutenant to Lieutenant Colonel in the Army and Air Force, and Commander in the Navy; their degrees from Master of Science to Doctor of Philosophy.

Eight were candidates for the degree of Aeronautical Engineer (Ae.E.), a degree intermediate between M.S. and Ph.D.: Maj. James C. Norris, jr., USMC; Lt. Donald P. Walker, USN; and Lt. Comdr. Raymond L. Angelo, Edwin G. Dankworth, jr., Carl O. Holmquist, John H. Lobdell, Max H. Ostrander and Arthur D. Struble, jr., all USN.

Lt. Gerald M. Monroe, USN, who received the Ae.E. degree from Caltech in 1949, was a Ph.D. degree candidate in the major field of aeronautics.

Comdr. Robert E. Odensing, USN, was a candidate for the M.S. degree in physics. Lt. Col. Howard C. Goodell, USAF, and 1st Lt. Frederic W. Hartwig, USAF, were candidates for the M.S. degree in aeronautics.

Five members of the Army Corps of Engineers received the M.S. degree in civil or mechanical engineering. They are: Lt. Col. John R. Jannarone, Maj. William W. Watkin, jr., Capt. Arthur L. Freer, and 1st Lt. Robert H. Ahlers, all of the Regular Army, and Maj. Allan J. Summers of the Active Reserve.

In addition, Bradford C. Houser, son of Rear Adm. Harold A. Houser, USN, was awarded a B.S. degree in engineering. His major was civil engineering.

Jet "Artificial Respiration"

Starting jet engines by "artificial respiration" has been tested successfully in Korea, the General Electric Co. disclosed this week.

The method, in which exhaust blast from one jet is used to start another directly behind it, was described by the company's Aircraft Gas Turbine Divisions and concurred by the Air Force as "an apparently practical means of starting jet aircraft at advance bases where external power units are unavailable, or in extremely cold weather where effectiveness of such starting sources is reduced."

Jet aircraft usually rely upon field power units for starting, rather than their own electrical systems, because of the large amount of power required.

The Korean tests were conducted with North American F-86 fighters and were reported by T. J. McIntyre, G-E service engineer assigned to the 4th Fighter Interceptor Group. The F-86, holder of the official world's speed record and the Air Force's fastest operational fighter, is powered by a General Electric J-47 turbojet engine.

Mr. McIntyre, in his report, said the tailpipe of the operating jet was aligned directly in front and some distance ahead of the air intake of the plane to be started. The interval was selected to protect the pilot and airframe of the aircraft to be started from the high-temperature exhaust gases of the plane ahead. The pilot wore an oxygen mask as an added protection in the initial test.

When the engine of the lead plane was accelerated to full power, Mr. McIntyre said, the exhaust blast was sufficient to windmill the power-plant of the idle aircraft to more than initial firing speeds and a normal start was made.

"There was no evidence of excessive heat or blast effect on the aircraft or engine of the idle aircraft," he said.

Mr. McIntyre said the tests were conducted because a number of F-86 aircraft of the group had been operating from advanced Korean bases subject to rapid alerting conditions.

"In such a situation," he related, "an aircraft in which the battery system was inoperative or which had landed at an emergency field where no external power units were available might have to be abandoned to the enemy unless some other means could be employed to provide initial starting rotation."

Engine Overhaul Contract

The largest single commitment in Pacific Airmotive's history for engine overhaul has been received from the Headquarters Air Materiel Command for the complete overhaul of an undisclosed number of R-2800 engines, according to an announcement at Burbank, Calif., by Thomas Wolfe, Pacific Airmotive Corporation's President.

These engines are similar to the ones now being used in the B-26 Attack Bombers that are spearheading the Korean Air Drive.

Mr. Wolfe stated that this order plus the current Air Force and commercial airline engines now being processed, brings the backlog of the Burbank Engine Division to an all time high and will extend the work load well into the latter part of 1952.

War In Korea

Night-flying Marine planes were greatly handicapped by low-hanging clouds and poor visibility, but the F4Us attacked numerous enemy vehicles, carrying munitions and other supplies, in a series of pre-dawn strikes.

Navy Planes Busy

British Navy pilots flying from the light carrier, H.M.S. Glory, off the west coast, struck hard at Red installations in the area from Chinampo to Kaesong. They destroyed numerous buildings, ox-carts, gun positions, railroad bridges and ammunition dumps, and inflicted many casualties.

U. S. Navy planes from the heavy carriers, Princeton and Bon Homme Richard, off the east coast, killed many Red infantrymen in the battle area south of Chorwon. They also battered bridges on the rail line between Wonsan and Hamhung. Gun positions, supply dumps, tanks, vehicles and locomotives were knocked out in the Kosong area.

The Allied naval bombardment group at Wonsan continued shelling enemy gun emplacements, troops and vehicles during the week. Destroyers, firing star shells, illuminated targets for Air Force night intruder runs. The Heavy Cruiser Los Angeles, only recently reactivated, has joined the blockading fleet off the east coast of Korea.

South of Songjin, the U. S. Destroyer Fiske scored direct hits on several important bridges. The Destroyer-Minesweeper Thompson shelled transportation targets near Namam and at Songjin. Junks, gun emplacements and bridges were hit by the Frigate Everett near Songjin.

boards. Previously, through the legislation now pending, the Navy had laid plans to prevent junior officers from being passed over twice by statutory boards.

In response to queries from THE JOURNAL, the Bureau of Naval Personnel said that lieutenant commanders "will be retained by other provisions of the Officer's Personnel Act," and that commanders and captains can be retired after being passed over twice, and then recalled to active duty.

At present there are about 300 junior grade officers serving on active duty who have been passed over once by statutory selection boards. They include 268 lieutenants (jg) and 81 lieutenants. These officers, if retained under the new legislation, may be promoted to higher grades, the Navy said, but will have to be retired in their permanent rank.
